House Orders Oleo Tax Repeal Vote

Showdown Due Tomorrow; GOP Ranks Divided

Committee Can No Longer Shelve Bill

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP) — Northern city Republicans today teamed with Southern Democrats and struck a blow for oleo.

When the shouting and tumult died away in the House, it was found that oleo had won a major round over butter, 235 to 121.

It was a day which produced a little of everything, including a proposal that margarine should be put up in tricky triangular packages.

The test itself was on a rather technical issue. Officially, the House voted to discharge its Agriculture Committee from further consideration of bills to repeal federal taxes on oleo.

This means that the committee no longer can shelve the bills—as it previously had decided to do by a vote of 16 to 10.

It also means that the House, judging from today's vote, soon will pass a bill cancelling taxes on oleo. Debate was limited to three hours, with the final vote tentatively set for Wednesday.

It does not mean that the housewife soon may go to her favorite grocery store and buy her margarine already colored.

For the bill still must pass the Senate and then get President Truman's okay. And even if this is done, there still are more than 20 states with their own taxes and restrictions on oleo.

Unusual Political Lineup

Today's political lineup was unusual.

Generally the southern Democrats are yammering at their northern city brethren, and vice versa.

But it was a different story today.

The South had its interest: Cotton, peanuts, soybean and corn oil go into margarine.

The urban North had its interest: Housewives have protested to Congress they don't want to color their oleo any more.

The breakdown showed 139 Democrats, 94 Republicans and two American Labor Party members from New York supporting the oleo cause.

Against it were 112 Republicans and nine Democrats.

Commented Rep. Clevenger (R-Ohio):

"The biggest political hoax in many a moon has made strange bedfellows. The cotton South and the CIO are sharing the same pillow, and Harry and Hank Wallace are cuddled up together."

The talk was pretty much like that all along.

Galleries Are Jammed

One of the largest galleries of the session—larger even than the one for the debate on European recovery loans—was on hand for the noisy arguments.

It heard Rep. Dan Reed (R-NY) say that the oleo fight was led by a powerful lobby.

And it heard Rep. E. A. Mitchell (R-Ind) agree.

"It's a powerful lobby all right," said Mitchell, "a lobby of housewives, the press, radio and every magazine in the country."

Rep. Hill (R-Colo) thought he might have the answer. Let's repeal the tax, he suggested, but make sure that everyone knows he's getting oleo when he buys it.

Why not require that oleo be put up in triangular packages? Or in cylinders?

He brought along some blocks to show what he had in mind.

The House will consider his amendment later.

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP) — Secretary Marshall will have a news conference at 11 a. m. (EST) Wednesday, the State Department announced today. It will be his first conference since returning from the Bogota Inter-American Conference.

Lewis Fails To Get Pension Plan Going

Trustees To Meet Again Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP)—John L. Lewis failed to get his $100 - per - month miners' pension plan rolling at a two-hour meeting today of welfare fund trustees.

None of the three trustees would say what the snag was. They agreed to meet again Wednesday at 4 p. m. EST. Meanwhile miners were back to work in force.

"No statement of any kind," Lewis told newsmen afterward.

Sen. Bridges (R-NH), the neutral trustee, and Ezra Van Horn, representing the mine owners, declined any comment.

Bridges did say, however, that no time has yet been set for starting pension payments to retired miners.

While the miners dug coal, the trustees turned their attention to questions including a court challenge of the pension agreement which preceded the back-to-work order from Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers.

Lewis is chairman of the pension fund. Other members are Sen. Bridges (R - NH) and Ezra Van Horn, spokesman for the operators.

Van Horn has asked the courts to prevent a Lewis-Bridges pension agreement from taking effect. It would grant pensions of $100 a month to miners 62 or older who have worked 20 years.

This, argued Van Horn, would illegally provide pensions to miners whose employers did not contribute the 10 cents a ton royalty by which a $33,000,000 welfare fund has been amassed. He said also that it would break the fund and leave nothing for other benefits.

The government meanwhile checked up on the mines to see how fully manned they are. The Justice Department has taken the position that an 80-day anti-strike injunction it got in court should date from the time coal production becomes normal. If it should start today, the injunction would still be in effect past June 30 when the present union-management contract expires.

Some union lawyers say it should date from April 5, when Lewis was served with the original court order directing him to end this spring's walkout.

The walkout started after Lewis informed the miners that the operators had "dishonored" their contract by not putting a pension plan into effect. It ended after he told them of the agreement with Sen. Bridges, and messaged that the contract was thereby honored.

Admist all this, Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough fined the union $1,400,000 and Lewis $20,000 for contempt of court.

Chief Of Police Of Berlin Flees Russian Sector

BERLIN, April 26 (AP)—American authorities said tonight the commander of Berlin's uniformed police had fled to the western sector of the city avowedly to seek United States and British protection from arrest by the Russians.

Police Chief Hans Kanig told the Western Allies the Soviets wanted to arrest him because he had ordered the disciplining of one of his policemen who had enticed a German citizen into the Russian sector for kidnaping, the authorities said.

William T. Babcok, American deputy commandant in Berlin, said Kanig commands 11,000 Berlin police.

Babcock said the Russians would be confronted with Kanig's story and asked to explain.

Two Killed, Five Hurt In Brooklyn Explosion, Fire

Blast Destroys Gas Company Building

NEW YORK, April 26 (AP) — At least two persons were killed today and five others injured in a series of thunderous explosions and fire which destroyed a three-story gas company building in Brooklyn.

First reports from firemen and others were that as many as four had died, five were missing and seven were injured. These apparently resulted from confusion at the scene.

Exact cause of the blast was not immediately determined.

"It was terrific," one rescue worker said. "It sounded like a couple of tons of dynamite went off."

The building housed the production division of the Kings County Lighting Company, and contained offices, laboratories and meters. Large gas storage tanks are situated nearby.

The loss of life might have been greater, police said, but the building was being remodeled at the time and was staffed by a skeleton crew. The company manufactures artificial gas for home and industrial use.

The fire was brought under control after about three hours.

The force of the explosion blew clothes off those who were inside the building. Iron bars on the windows were twisted and blown apart.

Thousands of persons in factory buildings in the vicinity of the explosion, 55th Street and First Avenue, were ordered evacuated by police and fire officials.

Employes of nearby factories, members of the New York Port of Embarkation, and patrolmen participated in the rescue work.

Herbert H. Rice and Joseph Harrahill, employes of the nearby firms, got a ladder and rescued two men from the burning building. They were uninjured although explosions shook the ladder loose while they were on it.

House Approves "Fast" Time For Washington

WASHINGTON, April 26. (AP)—The House passed 204 to 92 today a bill to put the nation's capital on Daylight Saving Time.

The House measure would permit one hour fast time here only in 1948. The Senate has passed a measure authorizing putting clocks ahead in spring and summer months on a permanent basis.

A conference committee of the two bodies now will seek to reach a compromise.

Railroad-Union Talks To Resume

CHICAGO, April 26. (AP)—Discussions aimed at settlement of a wage dispute involving the nation's railroads and three operating unions recessed today without disclosure of progress.

The participants will resume the closed meeting tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. Midnight Tuesday marks the end of a 30-day cooling off period which followed issuance of a settlement recommendation by a federal fact-finding panel in March.

The unions have been directed to set a strike date after the midnight deadline if no agreement has been reached.

A strike of the three brotherhoods would involve some 150,000 railroad men and would paralyze the nation's carriers.

Involved are the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and the Switchmen's Union of North America.

They turned down the fact-finding panel's recommendation for a 15½ cents an hour pay increase. The carriers had agreed to the increase.

The unions termed the recommended increase inadequate in view of rising living costs. Two other railroad unions, the Railway Trainmen and Railway Conductors, previously accepted the pay hike.

"Basing Point" System Of Prices Is Outlawed

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP) — The cement industry's "basing point" system of prices — under which all mills charge the same prices in any one market, no matter how far the mill is from that market—was outlawed today by the Supreme Court.

The ruling, which upheld an order by the Federal Trade Commission, may have a far-reaching effect on other prices in heavy industry in cases where a common system of delivered prices is in effect.

In particular FTC officials expected it to have a strong bearing on a steel case now pending before the commission.

An official of the FTC said he considered the two cases "highly similar."

France Suggests U.N. Elite Police Guard Jerusalem

Force Would Include New York Coppers

LAKE SUCCESS, April 26 (AP)—France is reported sponsoring the creation of a heavily-armed volunteer United Nations elite police corps to safeguard Jerusalem. The proposal is said to have tentative approval of Jews and Arabs as well as a number of delegates.

The 500-to-800 man force as suggested by France might include at least 100 New York police volunteers, but no Russians if the Western Powers could exclude them.

Others would be drawn from among London bobbies, British Palestine forces, French mobile guards, and trained police from other countries around the globe.

Fifty Palestine policemen have notified the United Nations they would join such a force.

Observers speculated that any Russian volunteers might be kept off the proposed force through a screening process that would weed out undesirables on a basis of individual qualifications. The United States and other nations have been reported anxious to keep Russian troops out of any international force sent to Palestine.

The United Nations police would be equipped with tanks, armored cars and the latest small arms for their task under the French plan.

The proposal was said to be ready for action by the United Nations Trusteeship Council tomorrow.

An informed source said a Swiss army officer, a Col. Gonnard, 50, was favored by the French for police chief for Jerusalem. It was said the Swiss government had agreed to make Col. Gonnard available to the United Nations.

Claims Balloon Record

MOSCOW, April 26 (AP)—Ludmilla Ivanova claimed today a new nonstop balloon flight record for women of 32 hours and 45 minutes.

In an interview in Evening Moscow she said she had made the flight with a woman companion last week to study transformation of air masses.

Italian, Yugoslav Patrols Exchange Fire; Two Killed

Incident Occurs In Venezia Giulia

VENICE, Italy, April 26 (AP) — A Yugoslav officer and an Italian soldier were killed, and three Italian soldiers were wounded today in an exchange of shots between Italian and Yugoslav patrols in Venezia, Giulia, Italian military officials said tonight.

The Italian officials said in Udine, the shooting occurred in the commune of Grimacco in Udine, northwest of the free territory of Trieste.

Their report said an Italian patrol of 18 officers and men encountered the Yugoslavs near Rauna Di Luico, a village on the border of Italian and Yugoslav-occupied territory.

Marker Reported Shifted

The Italians reached a point which their commander considered to be Italian territory, the military officials said. However, the wooden marker at that point had been shifted by the Yugoslavs, they added.

Suddenly a burst of machine-gun fire came from the Yugoslav patrol, striking the four Italian soldiers and killing one man instantly. The Italians returned the fire immediately.

Following this, the report said, there was a long burst of gunfire from the Yugoslav side and more than 70 Yugoslav soldiers came charging down a hill. The Italian patrol withdrew to avoid further losses.

Confer At Scene Of Incident

The Italian wounded, among them an officer, were taken to a hospital in Udine.

Italian authorities, including Gen. Montezemolo, of the Mantova Division, went to the scene of the incident.

They held a long discussion with Yugoslav authorities who agreed to surrender the body of the dead Italian which was left behind in the affray.

Light Vote Seen In Pennsylvania Popularity Race

PHILADELPHIA, April 26 (AP) —Pennsylvania voters get their chance to say who they want for President tomorrow but it's only a straw-in-the-wind affair.

Only President Truman's name is entered in Democratic or Republican primaries but ballot space for write-in votes offers a sampling of sentiment on top contenders. A 30 per cent vote is expected.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey dominated the write-in popularity contest four years ago then went on to win the Republican presidential nomination.

The preferential vote is not binding on pivotal Pennsylvania's big block of delegates to the nominating conventions. The Republican delegation of 73 is unpledged while the Democratic state organization is backing President Truman. The Democrats have 74 delegates.

Two Of Detroit's Tiny Quads Die

DETROIT, April 26 (AP) — Two of four tiny quadruplets born prematurely this morning died at Providence Hospital late today.

The other two, both girls weighing less than two pounds each, lay in incubators hanging to life, a doctor said, by a narrow threat.

The quadruplets — one boy and three girls — were born 10 weeks early to Anne Borg, 28, and her husband Joseph, a 28-year-old auto worker.

The mother was reported doing fine.

The quadruplet birth was believed to be the first ever recorded in Detroit. It came as a surprise to both parents, who had had no children previously. They said they had been given no reason to expect more than one child.

Names of Joseph, Mary, Margaret and Anne were given the infants in

Conference Will Hold Next Meeting In Caracas

BOGOTA, Colombia, April 26. (AP) —The Inter-American Conference today chose Caracas, Venezuela, as the site for its next meeting in 1952 or 1953.

The conference today also adopted a resolution condemning the use of economic sanctions, as a violation of the hemisphere principle of non-intervention.

In effect, the resolution places economic aggression by one country against another country on the same footing as military and political aggression.

Durant's Bid Postponed

ATLANTA, April 26 (AP)—Ex-Army Col. Jack Durant's bid for freedom, scheduled for a hearing today, was postponed until May 3 by Federal Judge Marvin Underwood.

Durant, now serving a 10-year sentence in the federal penitentiary here for the theft of the Hesse crown jewels while in Germany, contends the court martial which convicted him did so without authority.

VANDENBERG WARNS PREMIER STALIN U. S. TO RESIST RED PLOTS

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP) — Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich) said tonight he wants to tell Premier Stalin of Russia that "underlying everything else we shall not surrender to Communist conspiracies in the United States."

Vandenberg, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee made an unexpected speech at a Michigan congressional dinner.

His comments followed a proposal by Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) that a test case be brought to determine the legality of the Communist Party in America.

"We are suicidal fools if we do not root out any treason at home which may dream of bringing world revolution to the United States," Vandenberg said.

While reiterating the nation's desire for peace, Vandenberg said "we are realists. We do not propose to be isolated in a world that has been Communized by force."

Forrestal Says He Doesn't Think War Is Imminent

Secretary Opposes 70-Group Air Force

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP) — Secretary of Defense Forrestal said today that he doesn't think war is imminent. If it were, he said, he'd be asking $25,000,000,000 from Congress instead of $3,481,000,000.

The head of the nation's defense establishment found himself in the odd position of arguing against giving the military more funds than the lower figure.

He borrowed an old figure of speech on extreme preparedness: "If you leave it the military, they'll fortify the moon."

Favors 60-Group Air Force

Forrestal testified before the Senate Appropriations Committee in support of a program to increase the Air Force from 50 to 66 groups. The House voted for a 70-group force.

He added, however, that the smaller force, balanced with Army and Navy power, is designed to get "the best military results if our budget is to be limited."

The $3,481,000,000 figure would be on top of the $11,000,000,000 armed forces budget for the year beginning July 1.

Forrestal said that in view of inflation perils, military expenditures must be limited unless Congress slaps controls on prices and supplies.

"State Of Tension"

Sen. O'Daniel (D-Tex.) said the people are concerned about the huge public debt. He said they are even more concerned over statements by military figures that "we are getting closer to war."

Forrestal replied that he has said several times he does not believe war is imminent, but that we should be prepared.

He said "I do think we are in a state of tension which may last many years," he said.

Ancient Hebrew Scrolls Are Found In Holy Land

JERUSALEM, April 26 (AP) — Dr. Elieser Sukenik said today several hundred pages of Biblical and apocryphical Hebrew manuscripts were discovered in a cave near the northern shore of the Dead Sea.

Sukenik, head of Hebrew University's archeological department, said the find, made several months ago, represented "probably one of the most important archeological discoveries ever made in the Holy Land."

"The leather scrolls on which these texts are inscribed are only party deciphered yet, but I am certain some of them are over 2,000 years old, which means they are from the period preceding the destruction of Jerusalem by the Romans in 70 A. D.," Sukenik told a news conference.

Arab Invasion Reportedly Set For This Week

Abdullah Will Take Field, Dispatch Says

JERUSALEM, April 26. (AP)—The regular armies of Trans-Jordan, Syria, Lebanon and Egypt will launch an invasion of Palestine by Saturday, advices reaching Jerusalem tonight said.

A dispatch from Amman, capital of Trans-Jordan, said King Abdullah personally will take the field against the Jews at the head of the armies of Trans-Jordan, Syria and Lebanon.

Moving with him will be Egyptian army units which will cross the Holy Land's southern frontier in a co-ordinated action. The Egyptian command will be closely allied to Abdullah, it was said.

Arab informants in Cairo said Iraq and Saudi Arabia also have decided to throw their regular military forces into the fight to prevent the Jews from establishing a state of their own in the Holy Land.

Arab leaders reportedly are alarmed by the extent of recent Jewish military successes. Arab peoples in the Middle East have been inflamed by the arrival of Arab refugees from Palestine.

An invasion of the Holy Land by regular army troops would defy the British mandate which is not scheduled to end until May 15 and the United Nations Security Council which has ordered a truce in Palestine.

British-Trained Troops

The Cairo accounts said King Abdullah already has dispatched reinforcements of Trans-Jordan's Arab Legion to Palestine.

The 15,000 Legionnaires are well disciplined troops, British - trained and adequately equipped, they are regarded as superior to the Arab volunteer forces which thus far have engaged the Jews in the Holy Land. Approximately 10,000 Legionnaires already are in Palestine on security duty with the British.

The accounts telling of the massing of Arab armies on Palestine's boundaries came as 500 Arab volunteers rushed into strategic Alamein camp on the southern edge of Jerusalem and occupied it without firing a shot.

The volunteers made their move tonight as the last elements of the British Suffolk Regiment pulled out. Members of Haganah, the Jewish militia, were deployed on two sides of the camp, but never had a chance to make a bid for the position which commands the entire southern approach to Jerusalem.

The Arab fighters, under command of Fadel Bey Jamal, a high officer of the Arab Judean army, went into Alamein camp from three sides. They sliced through a narrow corridor between the camp and the Jewish emplacements.

Battle For Jerusalem Seen

An Arab commander said the camp will be readied for occupancy by some 1,500 Syrian and Iraqi troops of the Yarmuk army's third Division under command of Abdul Hamid Raway. The Yarmuk troops are due in Jerusalem tonight or early tomorrow.

Grim battle preparations south of Jerusalem apparently indicated that both sides were getting ready for a major battle for Jerusalem.

Fighting was resumed along Palestine's Coastal Plain. The Jewish extremist group, Irgun Zvai Leumi, struck again from Tel Aviv against the neighboring Arab city of Jaffa. In doing so the Irgunists acted in defiance of broadcast orders by Haganah, the regular Jewish militia.

Fist-fighting broke out between members of the two Jewish groups when the Irgunists refused to remove a block on a street leading to the battle zone. Passersby swarmed in and broke up the fighting after a few shots were fired into the air.

Strong automatic weapons fire covered the Irgunists' drive against Jaffa. Answering mortar and machine-gun fire indicated the Arabs were putting up stiff resistance.

Baby Is Immune To Pain; Would Never Feel Spanking

AKRON, O., April 26 (AP)—Burns, bumps and pin pricks mean nothing to Beverly Smith—for the tiny baby never has felt pain in her year of life, Children's Hospital officials report.

Hospital Physicians said Beverly cries when she is hungry or angry, but doesn't flinch when a pin is jabbed into her arm.

The baby is not ill and is a bright and active child, mentally, the doctors reported, terming her condition as "a state of indifference to injury of congenital origin." In other words, she was born with it.

Beverly was one year old yesterday.

She is one baby who will never feel a spanking, they continued, and would be oblivious to the ordinary pain resulting from a broken bone or an appendicitis attack.

Physicians at the hospital said they believed only four or five other children in the world have been born with Beverly's condition.

The baby's uncanny immunity to pain was noticed by her mother, Mrs. Victor Smith, when the child bumped her head on the floor at the age of six months and did not cry.

"Then one day soon after she laid her little hand on a hot stove," Mrs. Smith said, "she didn't cry, either. She just looked at me and laughed.

"Finally when she kept on getting bumps and bruises all over and

Nervous Lana Sheds Tears After Marriage To Topping

HOLLYOOD, April 26. (AP)—Lana Turner and Tinplate Heir Bob Topping were married today in a super-collossal Hollywood wedding that at one point proved so unnerving to the bride she burst into tears.

It was the fourth wedding for both the movieland sweater queen and for Topping, but Lana vowed that "this time it's for keeps" and a friend quoted her as saying she would "quit the movies if my career interferes with my marriage."

The glamorous Lana, a dream in champagne lace and an ankle-length satin gown, and the chubby, 34-year-old Topping became man and wife in a six-minute wedding at the home of Best Man W. R. "Billy" Wilkerson.

It was Wilkerson who announced that Miss Turner will get out of the movies if that's the only way she can stay Mrs. Topping for the rest of her life.

"She's really stuck on the guy," Wilkerson confided.

Lana's burst of tears occurred while photographers bulbs' were flashing just after the ceremony, to record the even for posterity.

Sobbing into a handkerchief, the actress beseeched:

"Lay off a little while, won't you? No more pictures right now."

The distraught bride was helped gently upstairs where she collapsed on a bed. But she came back down half an hour later and smilingly

Two Killed, Five Hurt In Brooklyn Explosion, Fire

Blast Destroys Gas Company Building

NEW YORK, April 26 (AP) — At least two persons were killed today and five others injured in a series of thunderous explosions and fire which destroyed a three-story gas company building in Brooklyn.

First reports from firemen and others were that as many as four had died, five were missing and seven were injured. These apparently resulted from confusion at the scene.

Exact cause of the blast was not immediately determined.

"It was terrific," one rescue worker said. "It sounded like a couple of tons of dynamite went off."

The building housed the production division of the Kings County Lighting Company, and contained offices, laboratories and meters. Large gas storage tanks are situated nearby.

The loss of life might have been greater, police said, but the building was being remodeled at the time and was staffed by a skeleton crew. The company manufactures artificial gas for home and industrial use.

The fire was brought under control after about three hours.

The force of the explosion blew clothes off those who were inside the building. Iron bars on the windows were twisted and blown apart.

Thousands of persons in factory buildings in the vicinity of the explosion, 55th Street and First Avenue, were ordered evacuated by police and fire officials.

Employes of nearby factories, members of the New York Port of Embarkation, and patrolmen participated in the rescue work.

Herbert H. Rice and Joseph Harrahill, employes of the nearby firms, got a ladder and rescued two men from the burning building. They were uninjured although explosions shook the ladder loose while they were on it.

House Approves "Fast" Time For Washington

WASHINGTON, April 26. (AP)—The House passed 204 to 92 today a bill to put the nation's capital on Daylight Saving Time.

The House measure would permit one hour fast time here only in 1948. The Senate has passed a measure authorizing putting clocks ahead in spring and summer months on a permanent basis.

A conference committee of the two bodies now will seek to reach a compromise.

Railroad-Union Talks To Resume

CHICAGO, April 26. (AP)—Discussions aimed at settlement of a wage dispute involving the nation's railroads and three operating unions recessed today without disclosure of progress.

The participants will resume the closed meeting tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. Midnight Tuesday marks the end of a 30-day cooling off period which followed issuance of a settlement recommendation by a federal fact-finding panel in March.

The unions have been directed to set a strike date after the midnight deadline if no agreement has been reached.

A strike of the three brotherhoods would involve some 150,000 railroad men and would paralyze the nation's carriers.

Involved are the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and the Switchmen's Union of North America.

They turned down the fact-finding panel's recommendation for a 15½ cents an hour pay increase. The carriers had agreed to the increase.

The unions termed the recommended increase inadequate in view of rising living costs. Two other railroad unions, the Railway Trainmen and Railway Conductors, previously accepted the pay hike.

"Basing Point" System Of Prices Is Outlawed

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP) — The cement industry's "basing point" system of prices — under which all mills charge the same prices in any one market, no matter how far the mill is from that market—was outlawed today by the Supreme Court.

The ruling, which upheld an order by the Federal Trade Commission, may have a far-reaching effect on other prices in heavy industry in cases where a common system of delivered prices is in effect.

In particular FTC officials expected it to have a strong bearing on a steel case now pending before the commission.

An official of the FTC said he considered the two cases "highly similar."

Force Would Include New York Coppers

LAKE SUCCESS, April 26 (AP)—France is reported sponsoring the creation of a heavily-armed volunteer United Nations elite police corps to safeguard Jerusalem. The proposal is said to have tentative approval of Jews and Arabs as well as a number of delegates.

The 500-to-800 man force as suggested by France might include at least 100 New York police volunteers, but no Russians if the Western Powers could exclude them.

Others would be drawn from among London bobbies, British Palestine forces, French mobile guards, and trained police from other countries around the globe.

Fifty Palestine policemen have notified the United Nations they would join such a force.

Observers speculated that any Russian volunteers might be kept off the proposed force through a screening process that would weed out undesirables on a basis of individual qualifications. The United States and other nations have been reported anxious to keep Russian troops out of any international force sent to Palestine.

The United Nations police would be equipped with tanks, armored cars and the latest small arms for their task under the French plan.

The proposal was said to be ready for action by the United Nations Trusteeship Council tomorrow.

An informed source said a Swiss army officer, a Col. Gonnard, 50, was favored by the French for police chief for Jerusalem. It was said the Swiss government had agreed to make Col. Gonnard available to the United Nations.

Claims Balloon Record

MOSCOW, April 26 (AP)—Ludmilla Ivanova claimed today a new nonstop balloon flight record for women of 32 hours and 45 minutes.

In an interview in Evening Moscow she said she had made the flight with a woman companion last week to study transformation of air masses.

Incident Occurs In Venezia Giulia

VENICE, Italy, April 26 (AP) — A Yugoslav officer and an Italian soldier were killed, and three Italian soldiers were wounded today in an exchange of shots between Italian and Yugoslav patrols in Venezia, Giulia, Italian military officials said tonight.

The Italian officials said in Udine, the shooting occurred in the commune of Grimacco in Udine, northwest of the free territory of Trieste.

Their report said an Italian patrol of 18 officers and men encountered the Yugoslavs near Rauna Di Luico, a village on the border of Italian and Yugoslav-occupied territory.

Marker Reported Shifted

The Italians reached a point which their commander considered to be Italian territory, the military officials said. However, the wooden marker at that point had been shifted by the Yugoslavs, they added.

Suddenly a burst of machine-gun fire came from the Yugoslav patrol, striking the four Italian soldiers and killing one man instantly. The Italians returned the fire immediately.

Following this, the report said, there was a long burst of gunfire from the Yugoslav side and more than 70 Yugoslav soldiers came charging down a hill. The Italian patrol withdrew to avoid further losses.

Confer At Scene Of Incident

The Italian wounded, among them an officer, were taken to a hospital in Udine.

Italian authorities, including Gen. Montezemolo, of the Mantova Division, went to the scene of the incident.

They held a long discussion with Yugoslav authorities who agreed to surrender the body of the dead Italian which was left behind in the affray.

Light Vote Seen In Pennsylvania Popularity Race

PHILADELPHIA, April 26 (AP)—Pennsylvania voters get their chance to say who they want for President tomorrow but it's only a straw-in-the-wind affair.

Only President Truman's name is entered in Democratic or Republican primaries but ballot space for write-in votes offers a sampling of sentiment on top contenders. A 30 per cent vote is expected.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey dominated the write-in popularity contest four years ago then went on to win the Republican presidential nomination.

Two Of Detroit's Tiny Quads Die

DETROIT, April 26 (AP) — Two of four tiny quadruplets born prematurely this morning died at Providence Hospital late today.

The other two, both girls weighing less than two pounds each, lay in incubators hanging to life, a doctor said, by a narrow threat.

The quadruplets — one boy and three girls — were born 10 weeks early to Anne Borg, 28, and her husband Joseph, a 28-year-old auto worker.

The mother was reported doing fine.

The quadruplet birth was believed to be the first ever recorded in Detroit. It came as a surprise to both parents, who had had no children previously. They said they had been given no reason to expect more than one child.

Names of Joseph, Mary, Margaret and Anne were given the infants in

Conference Will Hold Next Meeting In Caracas

BOGOTA, Colombia, April 26. (AP)—The Inter-American Conference today chose Caracas, Venezuela, as the site for its next meeting in 1952 or 1953.

The conference today also adopted a resolution condemning the use of economic sanctions, as a violation of the hemisphere principle of non-intervention.

In effect, the resolution places economic aggression by one country against another country on the same footing as military and political aggression.

Durant's Bid Postponed

ATLANTA, April 26 (AP)—Ex-Army Col. Jack Durant's bid for freedom, scheduled for a hearing today, was postponed until May 3 by Federal Judge Marvin Underwood.

Durant, now serving a 10-year sentence in the federal penitentiary here for the theft of the Hesse crown jewels while in Germany, contends the court martial which convicted him did so without authority.

VANDENBERG WARNS PREMIER STALIN U. S. TO RESIST RED PLOTS

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP) — Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich) said tonight he wants to tell Premier Stalin of Russia that "underlying everything else we shall not surrender to Communist conspiracies in the United States."

Vandenberg, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee made an unexpected speech at a Michigan congressional dinner.

His comments followed a proposal by Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) that a test case be brought to determine the legality of the Communist Party in America.

"We are suicidal fools if we do not root out any treason at home which may dream of bringing world revolution to the United States," Vandenberg said.

While reiterating the nation's desire for peace, Vandenberg said "we are realists. We do not propose to be isolated in a world that has been Communized by force."

Forrestal Says He Doesn't Think War Is Imminent

Secretary Opposes 70-Group Air Force

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP) — Secretary of Defense Forrestal said today that he doesn't think war is imminent. If it were, he said, he'd be asking $25,000,000,000 from Congress instead of $3,481,000,000.

The head of the nation's defense establishment found himself in the odd position of arguing against giving the military more funds than the lower figure.

He borrowed an old figure of speech on extreme preparedness: "If you leave it the military, they'll fortify the moon."

Favors 60-Group Air Force

Forrestal testified before the Senate Appropriations Committee in support of a program to increase the Air Force from 50 to 66 groups. The House voted for a 70-group force.

He added, however, that the smaller force, balanced with Army and Navy power, is designed to get "the best military results if our budget is to be limited."

The $3,481,000,000 figure would be on top of the $11,000,000,000 armed forces budget for the year beginning July 1.

Forrestal said that in view of inflation perils, military expenditures must be limited unless Congress slaps controls on prices and supplies.

"State Of Tension"

Sen. O'Daniel (D-Tex.) said the people are concerned about the huge public debt. He said they are even more concerned over statements by military figures that "we are getting closer to war."

Forrestal replied that he has said several times he does not believe war is imminent, but that we should be prepared.

He said "I do think we are in a state of tension which may last many years," he said.

Ancient Hebrew Scrolls Are Found In Holy Land

JERUSALEM, April 26 (AP) — Dr. Eliezer Sukenik said today several hundred pages of Biblical and apocryphical Hebrew manuscripts were discovered in a cave near the northern shore of the Dead Sea.

Sukenik, head of Hebrew University's archeological department, said the find, made several months ago, represented "probably one of the most important archeological discoveries ever made in the Holy Land."

"The leather scrolls on which these texts are inscribed are only party deciphered yet, but I am certain some of them are over 2,000 years old, which means they are from the period preceding the destruction of Jerusalem by the Romans in 70 A. D.," Sukenik told a news conference.

Arab Invasion Reportedly Set For This Week

Abdullah Will Take Field, Dispatch Says

JERUSALEM, April 26. (AP)—The regular armies of Trans-Jordan, Syria, Lebanon and Egypt will launch an invasion of Palestine by Saturday, advices reaching Jerusalem tonight said.

A dispatch from Amman, capital of Trans-Jordan, said King Abdullah personally will take the field against the Jews at the head of the armies of Trans-Jordan, Syria and Lebanon.

Moving with him will be Egyptian army units which will cross the Holy Land's southern frontier in a co-ordinated action. The Egyptian command will be closely allied to Abdullah, it was said.

Arab informants in Cairo said Iraq and Saudi Arabia also have decided to throw their regular military forces into the fight to prevent the Jews from establishing a state of their own in the Holy Land.

Arab leaders reportedly are alarmed by the extent of recent Jewish military successes. Arab peoples in the Middle East have been inflamed by the arrival of Arab refugees from Palestine.

An invasion of the Holy Land by regular army troops would defy the British mandate which is not scheduled to end until May 15 and the United Nations Security Council which has ordered a truce in Palestine.

British-Trained Troops

The Cairo accounts said King Abdullah already has dispatched reinforcements of Trans-Jordan's Arab Legion to Palestine.

The 15,000 Legionnaires are well disciplined troops. British - trained and adequately equipped, they are regarded as superior to the Arab volunteer forces which thus far have engaged the Jews in the Holy Land. Approximately 10,000 Legionnaires already are in Palestine on security duty with the British.

The accounts telling of the massing of Arab armies on Palestine's boundaries came as 500 Arab volunteers rushed into strategic Alamein camp on the southern edge of Jerusalem and occupied it without firing a shot.

The volunteers made their move tonight as the last elements of the British Suffolk Regiment pulled out. Members of Haganah, the Jewish militia, were deployed on two sides of the camp, but never had a chance to make a bid for the position which commands the entire southern approach to Jerusalem.

The Arab fighters, under command of Fadel Bey Jamal, a high officer of the Arab Judean army, went into Alamein camp from three sides. They sliced through a narrow corridor between the camp and the Jewish emplacements.

Battle For Jerusalem Seen

An Arab commander said the camp will be readied for occupancy by some 1,500 Syrian and Iraqi troops of the Yarmuk army's third Division under command of Abdul Hamid Raway. The Yarmuk troops are due in Jerusalem tonight or early tomorrow.

Grim battle preparations south of Jerusalem apparently indicated that both sides were getting ready for a major battle for Jerusalem.

Fighting was resumed along Palestine's Coastal Plain. The Jewish extremist group, Irgun Zvai Leumi, struck again from Tel Aviv against the neighboring Arab city of Jaffa. In doing so the Irgunists acted in defiance of broadcast orders by Haganah, the regular Jewish militia.

Fist-fighting broke out between members of the two Jewish groups when the Irgunists refused to remove a block on a street leading to the battle zone. Passersby swarmed in and broke up the fighting after a few shots were fired into the air.

Strong automatic weapons fire covered the Irgunists' drive against Jaffa. Answering mortar and machine-gun fire indicated the Arabs were putting up stiff resistance.

U. S. Troops Alerted

Baby Is Immune To Pain; Would Never Feel Spanking

AKRON, O., April 26 (AP)—Burns, bumps and pin pricks mean nothing to Beverly Smith—for the tiny baby never has felt pain in her year of life, Children's Hospital officials report.

Hospital Physicians said Beverly cries when she is hungry or angry, but doesn't flinch when a pin is jabbed into her arm.

The baby is not ill and is a bright and active child, mentally, the doctors reported, terming her condition as "a state of indifference to injury of congenital origin." In other words, she was born with it.

Beverly was one year old yesterday.

She is one baby who will never feel a spanking, they continued, and would be oblivious to the ordinary pain resulting from a broken bone or an appendicitis attack.

Physicians at the hospital said they believed only four or five other children in the world have been born with Beverly's condition.

The baby's uncanny immunity to pain was noticed by her mother, Mrs. Victor Smith, when the child bumped her head on the floor at the age of six months and did not cry.

"Then one day soon after she laid her little hand on a hot stove," Mrs. Smith said, "she didn't cry, either. She just looked at me and laughed.

"Finally when she kept on getting bumps and bruises all over and

Nervous Lana Sheds Tears After Marriage To Topping

HOLLYOOD, April 26. (AP)—Lana Turner and Tinplate Heir Bob Topping were married today in a super-collossal Hollywood wedding that at one point proved so unnerving to the bride she burst into tears.

It was the fourth wedding for both the movieland sweater queen and for Topping, but Lana vowed that "this time it's for keeps" and a friend quoted her as saying she would "quit the movies if my career interferes with my marriage."

The glamorous Lana, a dream in champagne lace and an ankle-length satin gown, and the chubby, 34-year-old Topping became man and wife in a six-minute wedding at the home of Best Man W. R. "Billy" Wilkerson.

It was Wilkerson who announced that Miss Turner will get out of the movies if that's the only way she can stay Mrs. Topping for the rest of her life.

"She's really stuck on the guy," Wilkerson confided.

Lana's burst of tears occurred while photographers bulbs' were flashing just after the ceremony, to record the even for posterity.

Sobbing into a handkerchief, the actress beseeched:

"Lay off a little while, won't you? No more pictures right now."

The distraught bride was helped gently upstairs where she collapsed on a bed. But she came back down half an hour later and smilingly

Stassen Wants Security Agency

PORTLAND, Ore., April 26 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen said tonight that "the real danger of the world is that the leaders of the Kremlin may make a mad move toward war."

He proposed a collective security organization to forestall it.

In a speech prepared for delivery tonight, the 41-year-old Republican presidential aspirant suggested this country take the lead in establishing an organization, within the United Nations, to enforce peace.

It was the former Minnesota Governor's only public appearance here during a 36-hour flying visit to launch his bid for support in Oregon's May 21 primary election.

Stassen outlined his stand on domestic issues. He recommended:

1. Instead of universal military training and selective service, a "manpower program" in which the young men would register, with Congress to decide how many should be called each year.

2. Restriction of consumer credit in boom times; major public works in recession periods.

3. Amendment of the Taft-Hartley law to allow union sponsored publications to support candidates, easing the restrictions on union shops, requiring union officers to sign non-Communist affidavits only when they are accused of Communism.

Republic Steel Rejects Union Pay Hike Request

CLEVELAND, April 26 (AP) — Republic Steel Corporation today rejected the CIO United Steel Workers' request for a substantial wage increase. A union spokesman said the steel workers' no-strike pledge would be honored.

The nation's third largest steel producer followed the lead established last week by United States Steel Corporation in turning down the wage request. United States Steel also announced price reductions in certain lines, but the Republic announcement made no mention of price changes.

Girl Scout Troop 17 Plans Awards Court

Girl Scout Troop No. 17, sponsored by Kingsley Methodist Church, met last night at the church and made tentative plans for a Spring Court of Awards, sometime next month.

Every member of the Troop is eligible for participation in the Court of Awards, as each has earned merit badges. Special entertainment of interest to parents and guests is also being planned, according to Miss Helen Campbell, troop leader.

Plans were made for the troop's participation in a clothing kit project as a means of preparing clothing bundles for needy children in European countries.

Lane Says Extra Session "Appears" Necessary

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 26 (AP)—A special session of the Maryland General Assembly this year "appears" necessary, Gov. Lane said today.

Although Lane said no date has been set, the special legislative session is expected to be held late next month or in early June.

A cost-of-living salary increase for state employes would be the main item of business. The next regular session of the State Legislature will be in January, 1949.

Ex-GI Says Army Doctor Left Towel In Stomach

BALTIMORE, April 26 (AP) — A federal court today heard the claim of a pensioned soldier who seeks $100,000 damages from the government because of a towel left in his stomach after an operation.

The former soldier, Arthur K. Jefferson, Joppa, Md., said he had two abdominal operations while in the Army. One was for a gall bladder condition and the other an appendectomy.

But his stomach itself was not operated on, he testified, until the 18-by-30 inch United States Army Medical Corps towel was discovered and removed.

Judge W. Calvin Chesnut is expected to give his verdict tomorrow.

Contempt Action Against Harriman Is Proposed

WASHINGTON, April 26. (AP)—Rep. Busbey (R-Ill) proposed today that W. Averell Harriman, former Secretary of Commerce, be brought before the House on contempt charges punishable by imprisonment.

Busbey also said in a statement that President Truman has "defied the will of Congress" in the case of Dr. Edward U. Condon. He said the President has had a part in "unholy acts of resistance to orderly processes of government."

The congressman proposed contempt action against Harriman for having withheld from the House an FBI loyalty report on Condon, director of the National Bureau of Standards.

Two Army Prisoners Escape From Train

BOONE, Ia., April 26 (AP) — The Provost Marshal's office at Omaha advised Boone police today that two Army prisoners escaped from a train which stopped here during the night.

The Army identified the escapees as Pvt. Thomas Taylor, 22, Round Hill, Va., and Pvt. James O. Cook, 17, Hagerstown, Md.

Boone police said two discarded Army uniforms were found near a church within two blocks of the depot.

Rep. Isacson Granted Passport To Palestine

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP) — Rep. Isacson (ALP-NY) has been granted a passport to visit Palestine.

State Department officials said today the passport was issued Friday and is "valid for Palestine and the necessary countries en route."

Isacson was turned down last month when he sought a passport to attend a meeting in Paris of backers of the Greek guerrillas.

The State Department took the stand that it would not be in the "best interests of the United States" to issue the passport in view of this government's support of Greece's efforts to defeat the guerrillas.

The most ballyhooed Hollywood wedding since Shirley Temple and John Agar were hitched several years ago was the climax of a widely-heralded romance.

It was the fourth time the principals had taken marital vows—but Lana was trembling from the soles of her $90 shoes to the tip of her lacquered blonde hair-do.

Lana was nervous. Twice she had to clear her throat before she could answer "Io do" to Dr. Hugh MacLennan, pastor emeritus of Hollywood Presbyterian Church.

But when the couple was duly pronounced man and wife, and Topping planted a calm but resounding kiss on her lips, the blonde actress regained her composure.

Republic Steel Rejects Union Pay Hike Request

CLEVELAND, April 26 (AP) — Republic Steel Corporation today rejected the CIO United Steel Workers' request for a substantial wage increase. A union spokesman said the steel workers' no-strike pledge would be honored.

The nation's third largest steel producer followed the lead established last week by United States Steel Corporation in turning down the wage request. United States Steel also announced price reductions in certain lines, but the Republic announcement made no mention of price changes.

Girl Scout Troop 17 Plans Awards Court

Girl Scout Troop No. 17, sponsored by Kingsley Methodist Church, met last night at the church and made tentative plans for a Spring Court of Awards, sometime next month.

Every member of the Troop is eligible for participation in the Court of Awards, as each has earned merit badges. Special entertainment of interest to parents and guests is also being planned, according to Miss Helen Campbell, troop leader.

Plans were made for the troop's participation in a clothing kit project as a means of preparing clothing bundles for needy children in European countries.

Lane Says Extra Session "Appears" Necessary

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 26 (AP)—A special session of the Maryland General Assembly this year "appears" necessary, Gov. Lane said today.

Although Lane said no date has been set, the special legislative session is expected to be held late next month or in early June.

A cost-of-living salary increase for state employes would be the main item of business. The next regular session of the State Legislature will be in January, 1949.

McGee Files Primary Election Expenses

Carlton McGee, Shades Lane, candidate for city council in the primary election last month, filed his statement of contributions and expenses with Clerk of Court Robert Jackson yesterday.

McGee says he spent $52.99 for engravings, pictures, cards and advertising. He reports he received contributions of $25.

More than 1,000 nurses are needed as officers in the regular Navy Nurses Corps. At the present time, the Corps is 1,470 short of the authorized complement of 3,428. In addition, 7,000 nurses are being sought for the Reserve Navy Nurse Corps.

Ex-GI Says Army Doctor Left Towel In Stomach

BALTIMORE, April 26 (AP) — A federal court today heard the claim of a pensioned soldier who seeks $100,000 damages from the government because of a towel left in his stomach after an operation.

The former soldier, Arthur K. Jefferson, Joppa, Md., said he had two abdominal operations while in the Army. One was for a gall bladder condition and the other an appendectomy.

But his stomach itself was not operated on, he testified, until the 18-by-30 inch United States Army Medical Corps towel was discovered and removed.

Judge W. Calvin Chesnut is expected to give his verdict tomorrow.

Contempt Action Against Harriman Is Proposed

WASHINGTON, April 26. (AP)—Rep. Busbey (R-Ill) proposed today that W. Averell Harriman, former Secretary of Commerce, be brought before the House on contempt charges punishable by imprisonment.

Busbey also said in a statement that President Truman has "defied the will of Congress" in the case of Dr. Edward U. Condon. He said the President has had a part in "unholy acts of resistance to orderly processes of government."

The congressman proposed contempt action against Harriman for having withheld from the House an FBI loyalty report on Condon, director of the National Bureau of Standards.

Two Army Prisoners Escape From Train

The Army identified the escapees as Pvt. Thomas Taylor, 22, Round Hill, Va., and Pvt. James O. Cook, 17, Hagerstown, Md.

Boone police said two discarded Army uniforms were found near a church within two blocks of the depot.

Rep. Isacson Granted Passport To Palestine

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP) — Rep. Isacson (ALP-NY) has been granted a passport to visit Palestine.

State Department officials said today the passport was issued Friday and is "valid for Palestine and the necessary countries en route."

Isacson was turned down last month when he sought a passport to attend a meeting in Paris of backers of the Greek guerrillas.

The State Department took the stand that it would not be in the "best interests of the United States" to issue the passport in view of this government's support of Greece's efforts to defeat the guerrillas.

The most ballyhooed Hollywood wedding since Shirley Temple and John Agar were hitched several years ago was the climax of a widely-heralded romance.

It was the fourth time the principals had taken marital vows—but Lana was trembling from the soles of her $90 shoes to the tip of her lacquered blonde hair-do.

Lana was nervous. Twice she had to clear her throat before she could answer "Io do" to Dr. Hugh MacLennan, pastor emeritus of Hollywood Presbyterian Church.

But when the couple was duly pronounced man and wife, and Topping planted a calm but resounding kiss on her lips, the blonde actress regained her composure.

Cumberland Moves Along Under Its Tampered Time

Cumberland, like many, many cities, towns and communities scattered over the country, tampered with time again Sunday morning and pushed the hands of clocks and watches forward an hour so that those who like it may have an hour longer of daylight at day's end.

Some cities and towns in twenty-one states have gone on fast time, to remain in a state of more or less confusion until September 26. It means complicated transportation problems, business mix-ups, and to many a general nuisance. It is argued that there is no rhyme or reason to this annual time switch.

The cities which adopted fast time are not confined to the eastern part of the state, but are scattered all over. Cumberland's authority for giving her people a longer evening of daylight in which to do gardening and whatever other chores must be attended after a regular day's work, is contained in an ordinance, passed a year ago. It cannot, to be sure, govern what sections outside of Cumberland do in this regard, but the County Commissioners, lacking authority to order clocks changed have, through a resolution, expressed the wish that all communities within the county keep in step with Cumberland in observing daylight saving time. It is believed that most communities have taken this action without awaiting city councils in incorporated towns to officially declare fast time. And unincorporated places are expected to follow suit, if they haven't done so already, if for no other reason than to lessen the confusion.

Railroad train schedules will continue on standard time. This means that if one is planning a trip he will have to be at the station an hour earlier than his timepiece shows.

But, while it confuses some, it delights others, especially those who find evening the only time available in which to get in a game of golf. And the longer period of light does allow for completion of nine holes, at least. Picnickers can remain an hour longer at their favorite woodland spot while the extra hour of daylight could prove the difference between success and failure for city and suburban garden makers. So, let's forget the few inconveniences the new time brings and enjoy the trick we have played on time.

Allegany Co. Farmers Back Basic Land Policy Bill

A bill which has for its purpose to establish conservation and orderly development of the Nation's agricultural land and water resources as a basic policy of the United States is now pending in Congress. It has the full support of the Farm Bureau for Allegany County, but if that backing is to be made felt members of the House of Representatives should be advised of that fact.

The measure was introduced by Rep. Clifford R. Hope, Republican chairman of the Agriculture committee. It establishes, for the first time in our nation's history, a basic land policy. And it provides a new agency to carry out that policy, this with cooperation of other agencies state and and national. The bill recognizes the fact that all working together can't do too much to preserve the source of our country's future supplies of food and keep that source in effective operation.

A national magazine has pointed out that about three acres of cropland are now producing the food for each person in this country. A population increase estimated at 2,000,000 a year is gradually shrinking this allotment. But despite this threat to abundance, more than 500,000 acres of land are being lost each year through soil erosion. It is calculated by experts that no less than 107,000,000 acres are in or nearing a critical stage of deterioration and that figure includes land in Allegany county.

The measure is evidently the outcome of much study of the present conditions in and the future needs of America. Its strong points are the creation of a national land policy under a specific administration, the unity of all official efforts in conservation, and the cooperation of all agencies engaged or concerned in conservation. It deserves the support a great forward movement deserves.

Under the present setup, no fewer than fourteen different Federal agencies now deal with one phase or another of our inter-locked soil-and-water situation. Most of them have separate programs and little relation to one another. Some of them are badly understaffed—the Soil Conservation Service alone could use 1800 more technicians than it can afford to hire—while the old Triple A setup, which has been blended into the Production and Marketing Administration, has been getting nearly four times as much money for a so-called conservation program. It is a wasteful and inefficient arrangement and, of course is failing to do the job. What is needed is a genuine land policy that will give an overriding national interest to the conservation of our soil and water resources.

It is the purpose of Rep. Hope's bill to bring together all these separate agencies and to coordinate their work into what it is contended this move will do—an effective program.

It is good to know that the farmers of Allegany county recognize this fact and are giving the bill their honest-to-goodness backing.

New Look Pinker

The new look in cosmetics is pink, according to Ralph P. Lewis, president of the largest companies manufacturing these products. Feminine beautifiers change with the times and with the textile and fashion pictures, he says. Thus this year pink is the big color.

And the new look is lighter, more natural, "eliminating all the artificial aspects of color makeup," he says. Makeup now accentuates, it doesn't emphasize, he adds. That gaudy, heavy make-up look is out.

Lewis pooh-poohed rumors the sun-tan look is out. Pink powders and lipsticks will blend with a sunny skin, he said But leg-make-up is definitely a "dead duck" and his firm will have none of it.

Despite rumors of growing popularity of male toiletries, Lewis said his firm does not plan to enter this field. Wearers of the 5 o'clock shadow probably wouldn't go for the innovation anyway.

Truman mentioned Jefferson in a press conference when he meant Jackson. Anyway, this time he was not confused to the extent of crossing party lines.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Too Much Insulin

Sugar is always present in the blood and, in normal individuals, it remains at a respectable level. After eating, the percentage rises temporarily; the pancreas takes care of the oversupply by utilizing the added food. The diabetic has a scarcity of this secretion and consequently the blood sugar level remains high. The excess is excreted by the kidneys manifesting itself as sugar in the urine. Through proper diet and insulin, the malady can be kept under control.

Now and then individuals are encountered who possess an overly active pancreas. After each meal, too much insulin is manufactured and, within two to four hours, the sugar in the blood becomes so depleted that the system rebels. As a result, by 11 o'clock in the morning and four in the afternoon, the person feels tired, weak, and hungry. A glass of orange juice or a piece of candy frequently tides them over until lunch and dinner. If the blood level falls extremely low, the subject may exhibit sweating, tremors, visual disorders, or even convulsions.

Physicians have been unable to determine the cause in approximately 70 per cent of these cases. Apparently the nerves leading from the intestine to the pancreas are too energetic and stimulate more insulin than is required. Since the reflex originates from the carbohydrates ingested, much can be done by adhering to a diet low in this food element. Additional proteins are given in order to keep the caloric intake high enough to maintain weight and strength.

Diagnosis is made through a glucose tolerance test in which the fate of a large amount of sugar, administered by mouth, is studied by laboratory means for several hours thereafter. First the blood sugar content is determined after the patient has gone without food for 12 hours. Then he is asked to eat or drink a known quantity of carbohydrate. An hour later, a second analysis is made; two hours later, a third; three hours later, a fourth, etc. Low readings are usually obtained at the end of three to four hours in victims of hypoglycemia.

In 10 to 20 per cent, the cause of the condition can be found. Liver damage may be responsible and, by rectifying the situation, relief follows. When symptoms are severe, persistent, and uncontrollable by diet, an abdominal operation is often suggested because a tumor of the insulin-producing cells (islet) may exist. If such a lesion is present, it can be removed and cure is miraculous.

In the past it was a common practice to take out part of the pancreas if a tumor could not be found. It was felt that by doing this, less insulin would be secreted but the results were often disappointing and no one knew why. The answer came when it was discovered that many individuals have more than one pancreas. The additional structures are tiny and hidden in the walls of the stomach or intestine. Now, a careful search is made at the time of operation; if accessories are found and eliminated, the outlook is much better.

Not Abnormal

M. M. writes: Could diseased kidneys cause a yellow discoloration of the urine?

Reply

The urine is normally yellow. If the color is deepened, factors other than kidney damage are usually responsible.

Laboratory Procedure

Mrs. M. writes: What is meant by the "rabbit test"?

Reply

A test for pregnancy, in which laboratory rabbits are used.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Even Though I'm the type of physical specimen who has to lie down on the floor and roll the heavier vitamin pills into my mouth, I'm still interested in what's going on in the muscle world. All of which is by way of starting to say that a few nights ago I filled my canteen with snake oil and went to the Shrine Auditorium to watch the selection of a Mr. and Miss USA.

Mr. USA, it turned out, is Clarence Ross, who might be described as Boulder Dam with legs.

Clarence, or Clancy to his friends — and I'm positive the has nothing but friends — got his physique from lifting bar bells . . . bar bells being a fancy name for about 500 pounds of pig iron on a stick.

In fact, he got his start by clipping a coupon and sending away for a bar bell set. I had the same start, but that's all. The exertion of clipping the coupon put me in a rest cure for three months.

Clancy is not only well built, he's really strong. I offered to let him feel my muscle, and my tailor screamed. When he took off his shirt, all the women fainted. Then I took off my shirt and he fainted.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Jimmie Byrnes Believed In Keeping The Russians Talking; Averell Harriman Keeps Quiet; Duke Of Windsor Has Become Serious

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, April 26 — Thanksgiving Day 1945, Jimmie Byrnes spent at his State Department desk, worrying. As Secretary of State and primarily responsible for U. S. relations with Russia, he didn't think he had too much to be thankful for.

The last conference with Molotov had broken off with no date, no plans, no provision for meeting again. The Big 3 Foreign Ministers had rowed continually ever since V-J Day, but Byrnes felt that if they kept talking at least there was continued hope. Besides he knew that the Russians, unlike American diplomats, relished hot arguments. To them, it was all part of diplomatic negotiation.

Therefore, he thought it was important that these talks not be permanently broken off.

Finally Byrnes hit on the idea of taking advantage of a provision in the Potsdam agreement to call another conference; and to that end drafted a note to Stalin.

The note reminded Stalin that at Potsdam it was agreed the Big 3 Foreign Ministers were to meet in their respective countries, and that they had now met in San Francisco and London. However, they had yet to meet in Moscow. If the United States, therefore, received an invitation to meet in Moscow, Byrnes wrote, it would be happy to accept.

Within a few days, Moscow cabled back inviting the United States and the British to meet there in December.

Kept The Diplomats Talking

The Moscow conference which followed did not bring all the results hoped for, and Byrnes was criticized by some Senators for Russian appeasement. However, it kept both sides talking.

That's one important thing to be remembered about any dispute—whether it be a threatened labor strike or a diplomatic negotiation. A good labor conciliator will keep both sides talking, for once they stop talking, they strike. And once diplomats stop talking, their armies start shooting.

At present, the Big 3 Foreign Ministers have stopped talking—which is dangerous. One diplomatic feeler has come to the State Department from the Russians for a talk between Stalin and Truman, but the White House turned it down.

Asked by a White House visitor the other day, why he hadn't been willing to talk to Stalin, the President replied to the effect that he wasn't going to lick anyone's boots. Only he used words even stronger.

However, with the United States wisely starting a vigorous rearmament program, we are in a position to keep our feet under the diplomatic conference table without bootlicking — especially since we have shown our strength in the recent Italian elections.

In the opinion of this columnist, time is now on our side. The longer we can postpone war, the better chance we have of using the Marshall Plan to build a strong and friendly Western Europe. So it may pay us to keep on talking.

Silent Mr. Harriman

Tight-lipped Secretary of Commerce Averell Harriman remained tight-lipped to the end about his new job of "Ambassador at Large" for the Marshall Plan. Even some of his top assistants were in the dark.

Queried Henry Scharer, one of his aides:

"Is there anything to those press reports, Mr. Secretary, that you are leaving us to become European representative of the Economic Cooperation Administration?"

"Who's peddling that story?" asked Harriman, feigning surprise.

"Drew Pearson," replied Scharer.

"Let's see now," mused the Secretary of Commerce. "Mr. Pearson's accuracy record was around 87½ per cent at last report, wasn't it?"

"What I want to know is," persisted Scharer, "does his prediction about you shoot his accuracy record up of down?"

Harriman changed the subject.

Duke Of Windsor

The Duke of Windsor, not as young as he once was, but almost as handsome, lunched with Senator Barkley, Leslie Biffle and other Democratic leaders the other day.

He talked, not about dancing and night clubs as in the old days, nor about cabbages and kings. Instead, the conversation covered the Italian elections, John L. Lewis, and British coal production.

The Duke described the outcome in Italy as the most encouraging thing that had happened in a long time. Switching to coal, he was quick to rebuff John L. Lewis's criticism that British coal operators opposed mine mechanization.

"There is some mechanization in Great Britain," he said, "but most of our mines do not lend themselves to it because they are deeper and the coal seams narrower than in the United States. That makes the use of machinery difficult and more expensive."

The Duchess of Windsor was not at the luncheon. Her husband told Senators that he was looking forward to golfing on Long Island where he and Wally have leased a home near the Piping Rock Club.

Air Argument Continues

Secretary of Defense Forrestal got a rough going-over from Senators when he opposed the 70-group air program in a secret session of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

"I'm glad to hear that you fellows have finally made up your minds," remarked Senator Dick Russell of Georgia when Forrestal said he and Truman were agreed on 66 air groups. "I've seldom encountered as much inconsistency as the armed services have shown on this subject. They have had their representatives up on the Hill dozens of times with conflicting stories of what our military establishment should be."

"They haven't convinced me," declared Iowa's plain-talking Senator Wilson. "I'm still for the full 70 groups. If we're going to use these obsolete storage planes, then let's spend some money to make them up to date. However, depending on obsolete planes in these advanced times is like living in an old house. You can modernize it to make it more liveable, but it's still an old house."

"The 66-group plan may solve our immediate needs," argued Senator Bridges of New Hampshire. "It may be all right for this year and next but it doesn't visualize the type of aircraft production we may be needing four or five years from now."

Only convert Forrestal made was South Carolina's able Burnet Maybank, who seemed won over to the 66-group compromise.

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH ALSOP

It Hasn't Jelled Yet

THE CONSPICUOUS fact about the stop-Stassen movement is that it has not jelled yet. Both the Dewey and Taft camps talk openly, with a good deal of happy relish, but what they are going to do to the upstart from Minnesota when they get together. But the supporters of Senator Robert A. Taft still assert the grand alliance will be formed around Senator Taft. And the supporters of Governor Thomas E. Dewey are considerably more confident that the man to lead the stop-Stassen forces is Governor Dewey.

From this rather crucial difference, one may infer that the business of forming the combination to stop Stassen, while it has already begun, is still in a very early stage. Meanwhile, there have been further important developments which suggest that if Stassen maintains his present momentum in the Ohio and Oregon primaries, the stop-Stassenites are going to have their work cut out for them.

A week ago, in order to consolidate his own strength in advance of a possible reverse in Oregon, Governor Dewey tried to rally to his standard the large states of Pennsylvania, Michigan and Indiana. It can now be stated that the results have been disappointing.

In Pennsylvania, which has the largest single block of delegates after New York, the customary dark confusion prevails among the local chieftains. Joseph Pew, in his odd way, is rather hankering to nominate Speaker of the House Martin. Old Joe Grundy and Pennsylvania's Senator Martin, who are allies, are reputed to incline to Senator Taft. And Governor James Duff has let it be known that he fancies neither Taft nor Dewey, likes Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg best, but will settle for Stassen or Governor Warren of California. There has been no comfort for Governor Dewey here.

In Indiana, Representative Charles Halleck has given no visible sign of hankering to plump for Governor Dewey now. And in Michigan, there has also been a rebuff in response to the Dewey overtures. Arthur Summerfield, Michigan national committeeman, has taken a "wait and see" position, partly from personal inclination and partly because the great majority of Michigan delegates want to go into the convention and cast their ballots for Senator Vandenberg. The net result of all this is that the Dewey camp, for want of these needed reinforcements, remains in an extremely vulnerable state. A bad reverse in Oregon (which the always fallible experts predict) could cause real disintegration of Dewey's strength, and this would tend to rule out Dewey as the candidate of the anti-Stassenites.

Senator Taft seems to be in equal danger. Until the Nebraska election, Taft's managers said, with some haughtiness, that Governor Stassen would not pick up a single delegate in Ohio. Representative Clarence Brown is now talking as though the capture by Stassen of six or eight delegates in Taft's home state would be a mere bagatelle. Obviously, this indicates alarm. Furthermore, few impartial experts feel that even if Senator Taft is successful in repelling the invader in Ohio, he can possibly become the Republican nominee in view of his record as a vote-getter.

If both Taft and Dewey are ruled out, what then? When this question is perhaps tactlessly asked of them, both the Deweyites and Taftites frankly reply that they would favor Senator Vandenberg. Indeed, the Taft people prefer Vandenberg to Dewey and Dewey people like But here another grave problem Vandenberg vastly better than Taft. arises.

Senator Vandenberg does not want the nomination. He has said, with the utmost firmness, that he would not take it except as the result of a spontaneous draft. Under the circumstances, he seems extremely unlikely to permit his name to be used as the rallying cry of a movement to stop any one. And if it becomes clear that neither Dewey nor Taft is to be nominated, the members of the grand alliance against Stassen will have the utmost difficulty holding even the more sheep-like delegates in line without offering them a conceivably victorious candidate of some sort.

Such is the measure of the rise in fortunes of Harold Stassen, who was actually stranded in Los Angeles for a few hours, shortly before the Wisconsin primary, because his local fund raisers could not lay their hands on $1,800 to get Stassen's private plane off the ground.

For Stassen all depends on Ohio and Oregon. If he is defeated, or merely makes a modest showing, in either state, the old-line Republicans will catch up with him and pull him down. His greatest problem is that Governor Dewey and Senator Taft both feel the deepest personal bitterness toward him, not without cause. But his supporters are confident that he will not fail in the two tests ahead, and in the end will somehow defeat the grand alliance.

Stassen Strategy In His Ohio Campaign Is Being Scrutinized

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, April 26 — Time was when, in the midst of a preconvention campaign, the leading candidates would take an interest in the selection of a keynote speaker for the convention. The naming of a temporary chairman and a permanent chairman historically has occasioned many a clash between progressive and conservative forces in both parties.

This year all is different. Not a word has come from the progressive-minded Harold Stassen or from Governor Dewey about the naming of Governor Green of Illinois to be temporary chairman of the National Republican Convention. If Mr. Green, who is generally regarded as a member of the isolationist school of thought on international affairs and closer to the conservative point of view on domestic affairs, is acceptable to former Governor Stassen of Minnesota, then something in the way of a political miracle has happened to bring harmony to the Republican Party.

Just how the Illinois leader can, in his keynote speech, speak with enthusiasm about the Marshall Plan and about the leadership that Senator Vandenberg of Michigan gave to that important legislation and at the same time reflect the viewpoint of those in the Republican Party who oppose that sort of internationalism, involves a bit of straddling which is not readily reconciled with the choice of either Stassen or Vandenberg as the presidential nominee.

Stassen Remains Silent

From Senator Taft there would come no dissent, as he has in the past steered cautiously amid the demands of internationalism. Governor Dewey has been super-cautious. So it remained for only one of the leading candidates—Harold Stassen—to be outspoken about it, and he hasn't said a word. Senator Vandenberg insists he isn't a candidate, so presumably it isn't his function to say anything in criticism of the selection of Governor Green.

The naming of the Illinois governor as temporary chairman and of Speaker Martin as permanent chairman is generally interpreted as meaning the conservatives are in control of the Republican National Committee. Presumably the platform committee will also be chosen from conservatives. All this makes highly unlikely the nomination of former Governor Stassen unless public opinion says otherwise. He had everything to gain and nothing to lose by objecting to the choice of a conservative and near-isolationist as the keynote speaker.

The Democratic Party is waiting for an opportunity to inject foreign policy into the campaign if it can possibly be done. If Speaker Martin or Senator Taft should be the nominee, the argument will be that European countries will not feel secure about further aid under the Marshall Plan. If, on the other hand, Mr. Stassen or Mr. Vandenberg should be the nominee, there would be no foreign-policy questions or issues in the campaign.

Democratic Act On Labor Bill Heard

The former governor of Minnesota has apparently tried in the Ohio-primary campaign to give the impression that he is not a conservative—that, in fact, he is friendlier to labor than is Mr. Taft. To help spread this idea, Mr. Stassen accused the Ohio senator of having wanted to make the new labor law more extreme than it is and of having been prevented by "liberal Republicans." The truth is the Taft-Hartley law was toned down to get Democratic votes. If it had not been for the support of these southern Democratic votes, all the "liberal Republican" votes in the Senate would not have been adequate to get the present law passed.

Mr. Stassen implies that he would weaken the Taft-Hartley law. If he is doing this to win labor votes in the Ohio primary, that is understandable. At the same time, such opportunism will not win conservative support in the national convention when the Ohio primary is over. Mr. Stassen's principal difficulty is that Republican conservatives do not think he would stand firmly on the Taft-Hartley Act but would attempt to curry favor with labor unions by repeal or revision. His speeches in Ohio give that impression and would seem to have been a mistake so far as long-range tactics are concerned.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Triumph of Right

THE River Elbe is the dividing line between East and West in Europe, between the Teuton and the Slav, between what Toynbee calls the Western Christian and the Eastern Orthodox civilizations.

Rising in Bohemia, it passes through some of the most important areas of Czechoslovakia and Germany. Into it flows the Moldau, the Weisswasser, the Eger. It passes through the beautiful "Saxon Switzerland," where Frederick the Great fought one of his most important battles. It touches on Dresden, Wittenberg, Magdeburg, and Hamburg and finally flows into the North Sea off Cuxhaven.

It was at Hamburg, between the Elbe and the Alster, that Charlemagne built a fortress in 808 to keep out the Slav and Norseman. The church he erected three years later became the heart of one of the great centers for Christian missionary activitity not only among the Slavs but also in Jutland, the Danish Isles and Sweden and Norway.

Hamburg became under the Holsteins one of the most important commercial cities in Northern Europe and a thriving center of Hanseatic activity. It has ever been a dividing line between European and Slav, between Europe and Eurasia. Bohemia itself is the dividing kingdom between East and West, and Moldau, where it flows into the Elbe, on the Saxon border, is in the Western part of that country.

And so in 1948, the Elbe marks the westernmost movement of the Russian thrust into Europe, the farthest penetration without war. Here they have encountered the hard core of European civilization which is Christianity, in its Catholic and Protestant expressions. Here they encountered not politics and economics but religion — power that resists evil most when evil seems to be most triumphant.

The Italian election is a case in point. Whereas the Communist may shout, "Fraud" "American Dollars," the fact remains that the Italians responded to the direct, religious challenge of the Pope. It became an election for God or the Devil. At no time was the question at stake in doubt; priests were campaigning for the survival of their faith. Against that power, in hard times, Italy responded valiantly for God. This election is one of the most decisive in European history.

And curiously, the Russians have accepted its results as decisive. All the talk of strikes and uprisings was dissipated once the results were in, for the Russians, guided by historical materialism, recognized their defeat as not being accidental but of a repetition of the results of every effort that the Eastern Orthodox civilization has made to overwhelm the Western Christian civilization.

The East has often moved westward but it has always encountered this hard core and has always lost the battle and receded to its own steppes. Europe remains Europe—and Europe is not merely a geographical expression; it is a civilization.

The Ottoman Turks encountered the same experience when they moved into Europe. They were able to conquer in the Balkans but when they reached the gates of Vienna, they came up against the European core of religious faith which stood like an invisible wall against them. It stemmed the tide and although the Osmanli continued for centuries afterwards, thriving on slavery, their creative force had spent itself. The Arabs, earlier, encountered the same core at the Battle of Tours (732) when Charles Martel representing Western Christianity defeated Abdar-Rahman. Gibbon speculates on what might have happened had the Arab won the Battle of Tours:

"A victorious line of march had been prolonged above a thousand miles from the Rock of Gibraltar to the banks of the Loire; the repetition of an equal space would have carried the Saracens to the confines of Poland and the Highlands of Scotland: the Rhine is not more impassable than the Nile or Euphrates, and the Arabian fleet might have sailed without a naval combat into the mouth of the Thames.

"Perhaps the interpretation of the Koran would now be taught in the schools of Oxford, and her pulpits might demonstrate to a circumcised people the sanctity and truth of the revelation of Mahomet."

But Tours was not won by the Arab as Vienna was not conquered by the Turk and as the Italian election was not won by the Russians. Europe remains Western.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Add Something To It

Each of us is an inheritor of all that has happened since this earth was created—millions, perhaps billions of years ago. And it is a rich inheritance indeed. Each new period of human history reveals new discoveries and new wonders—and they all belong to each one of us.

It devolves upon each one of us, therefore, to add something to this rich inheritance, no matter how small the contribution. We are inspired by the contributions of Galileo, Socrates, Pasteur, Harvey, Lister, Edison, and a host of scientific and literary lights, whose minds have epriched the thought of all time. It is the privilege of the humblest to add something to it.

Someone is always adding something to our enjoyment and comfort. Many are those who have given to me encouragement and inspiration without ever having met them personally. A friend sends me a book, which I read with interest and it becomes a link between us. Then I tell you, who may read this Talk—and another link is forged for the increasing chain of knowledge. You add to the sum total of happiness in this world merely by your appreciation.

No matter what our station in life, where we work, or move about, we are privileged to add something that may travel afar! Certainly we should not hoard our benefits and blessings. The winged songster does not. The very air vibrates with its gift of melody.

The final story of a great man, or woman, is never completed. Someone is always adding something to it. Thousands of books have been written upon Napleon. Hardly a year without one or more books about Lincoln. Discoveries are forever being revealed—in science, and every phase of the arts. Something is being added to knowledge, from every quarter, every day of our lives.

Compare the famous Dr. Johnson dictionary to the latest of today, and what an improvement! The dictionary of tomorrow, however, will be a better one. Something of interest will be added. It is tragic for any of us to allow a single day to pass without adding something to it that will increase the happiness of some one else. Of unknown origin are these lines:

"Count that day lost whose low descending sun

Cumberland Moves Along Under Its Tampered Time

Cumberland, like many, many cities, towns and communities scattered over the country, tampered with time again Sunday morning and pushed the hands of clocks and watches forward an hour so that those who like it may have an hour longer of daylight at day's end.

Some cities and towns in twenty-one states have gone on fast time, to remain in a state of more or less confusion until September 26. It means complicated transportation problems, business mix-ups, and to many a general nuisance. It is argued that there is no rhyme or reason to this annual time switch.

The cities which adopted fast time are not confined to the eastern part of the state, but are scattered all over. Cumberland's authority for giving her people a longer evening of daylight in which to do gardening and whatever other chores must be attended after a regular day's work, is contained in an ordinance, passed a year ago. It cannot, to be sure, govern what sections outside of Cumberland do in this regard, but the County Commissioners, lacking authority to order clocks changed have, through a resolution, expressed the wish that all communities within the county keep in step with Cumberland in observing daylight saving time. It is believed that most communities have taken this action without awaiting city councils in incorporated towns to officially declare fast time. And unincorporated places are expected to follow suit, if they haven't done so already, if for no other reason than to lessen the confusion.

Railroad train schedules will continue on standard time. This means that if one is planning a trip he will have to be at the station an hour earlier than his timepiece shows.

But, while it confuses some, it delights others, especially those who find evening the only time available in which to get in a game of golf. And the longer period of light does allow for completion of nine holes, at least. Picnickers can remain an hour longer at their favorite woodland spot while the extra hour of daylight could prove the difference between success and failure for city and suburban garden makers. So, let's forget the few inconveniences the new time brings and enjoy the trick we have played on time.

Allegany Co. Farmers Back Basic Land Policy Bill

A bill which has for its purpose to establish conservation and orderly development of the Nation's agricultural land and water resources as a basic policy of the United States is now pending in Congress. It has the full support of the Farm Bureau for Allegany County, but if that backing is to be made felt members of the House of Representatives should be advised of that fact.

The measure was introduced by Rep. Clifford R. Hope, Republican chairman of the Agriculture committee. It establishes, for the first time in our nation's history, a basic land policy. And it provides a new agency to carry out that policy, this with cooperation of other agencies state and and national. The bill recognizes the fact that all working together can't do too much to preserve the source of our country's future supplies of food and keep that source in effective operation.

A national magazine has pointed out that about three acres of cropland are now producing the food for each person in this country. A population increase estimated at 2,000,000 a year is gradually shrinking this allotment. But despite this threat to abundance, more than 500,000 acres of land are being lost each year through soil erosion. It is calculated by experts that no less than 107,000,000 acres are in or nearing a critical stage of deterioration and that figure includes land in Allegany county.

The measure is evidently the outcome of much study of the present conditions in and the future needs of America. Its strong points are the creation of a national land policy under a specific administration, the unity of all official efforts in conservation, and the cooperation of all agencies engaged or concerned in conservation. It deserves the support a great forward movement deserves.

Under the present setup, no fewer than fourteen different Federal agencies now deal with one phase or another of our inter-locked soil-and-water situation. Most of them have separate programs and little relation to one another. Some of them are badly understaffed—the Soil Conservation Service alone could use 1800 more technicians than it can afford to hire—while the old Triple A setup, which has been blended into the Production and Marketing Administration, has been getting nearly four times as much money for a so-called conservation program. It is a wasteful and inefficient arrangement and, of course is failing to do the job. What is needed is a genuine land policy that will give an overriding national interest to the conservation of our soil and water resources.

It is the purpose of Rep. Hope's bill to bring together all these separate agencies and to coordinate their work into what it is contended this move will do—an effective program.

It is good to know that the farmers of Allegany county recognize this fact and are giving the bill their honest-to-goodness backing.

New Look Pinker

The new look in cosmetics is pink, according to Ralph P. Lewis, president of the largest companies manufacturing these products. Feminine beautifiers change with the times and with the textile and fashion pictures, he says. Thus this year pink is the big color.

And the new look is lighter, more natural, "eliminating all the artificial aspects of color makeup," he says. Makeup now accentuates, it doesn't emphasize, he adds. That gaudy, heavy make-up look is out.

Lewis pooh-poohed rumors the sun-tan look is out. Pink powders and lipsticks will blend with a sunny skin, he said. But leg-make-up is definitely a "dead duck" and his firm will have none of it.

Despite rumors of growing popularity of male toiletries, Lewis said his firm does not plan to enter this field. Wearers of the 5 o'clock shadow probably wouldn't go for the innovation anyway.

Truman mentioned Jefferson in a press conference when he meant Jackson. Anyway, this time he was not confused to the extent of crossing party lines.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Too Much Insulin

Sugar is always present in the blood and, in normal individuals, it remains at a respectable level. After eating, the percentage rises temporarily; the pancreas takes care of the oversupply by utilizing the added food. The diabetic has a scarcity of this secretion and consequently the blood sugar level remains high. The excess is excreted by the kidneys manifesting itself as sugar in the urine. Through proper diet and insulin, the malady can be kept under control.

Now and then individuals are encountered who possess an overly active pancreas. After each meal, too much insulin is manufactured and, within two to four hours, the sugar in the blood becomes so depleted that the system rebels. As a result, by 11 o'clock in the morning and four in the afternoon, the person feels tired, weak, and hungry. A glass of orange juice or a piece of candy frequently tides them over until lunch and dinner. If the blood level falls extremely low, the subject may exhibit sweating, tremors, visual disorders, or even convulsions.

Physicians have been unable to determine the cause in approximately 70 per cent of these cases. Apparently the nerves leading from the intestine to the pancreas are too energetic and stimulate more insulin than is required. Since the reflex originates from the carbohydrates ingested, much can be done by adhering to a diet low in this food element. Additional proteins are given in order to keep the caloric intake high enough to maintain weight and strength.

Diagnosis is made through a glucose tolerance test in which the fate of a large amount of sugar, administered by mouth, is studied by laboratory means for several hours thereafter. First the blood sugar content is determined after the patient has gone without food for 12 hours. Then he is asked to eat or drink a known quantity of carbohydrate. An hour later, a second analysis is made; two hours later, a third; three hours later, a fourth, etc. Low readings are usually obtained at the end of three to four hours in victims of hypoglycemia.

In 10 to 20 per cent, the cause of the condition can be found. Liver damage may be responsible and, by rectifying the situation, relief follows. When symptoms are severe, persistent, and uncontrollable by diet, an abdominal operation is often suggested because a tumor of the insulin-producing cells (islet) may exist. If such a lesion is present, it can be removed and cure is miraculous.

In the past it was a common practice to take out part of the pancreas if a tumor could not be found. It was felt that by doing this, less insulin would be secreted but the results were often disappointing and no one knew why. The answer came when it was discovered that many individuals have more than one pancreas. The additional structures are tiny and hidden in the walls of the stomach or intestine. Now, a careful search is made at the time of operation; if accessories are found and eliminated, the outlook is much better.

Reply

The urine is normally yellow. If the color is deepened, factors other than kidney damage are usually responsible.

Reply

A test for pregnancy, in which laboratory rabbits are used.

By BOB HOPE

Even Though I'm the type of physical specimen who has to lie down on the floor and roll the heavier vitamin pills into my mouth, I'm still interested in what's going on in the muscle world. All of which is by way of starting to say that a few nights ago I filled my canteen with snake oil and went to the Shrine Auditorium to watch the selection of a Mr. and Miss USA.

Mr. USA, it turned out, is Clarence Ross, who might be described as Boulder Dam with legs.

Clarence, or Clancy to his friends — and I'm positive the has nothing but friends — got his physique from lifting bar bells . . . bar bells being a fancy name for about 500 pounds of pig iron on a stick.

In fact, he got his start by clipping a coupon and sending away for a bar bell set. I had the same start, but that's all. The exertion of clipping the coupon put me in a rest cure for three months.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, April 26—Thanksgiving Day 1945, Jimmie Byrnes spent at his State Department desk, worrying. As Secretary of State and primarily responsible for U. S. relations with Russia, he didn't think he had too much to be thankful for.

The last conference with Molotov had broken off with no date, no plans, no provision for meeting again. The Big 3 Foreign Ministers had rowed continually ever since V-J Day, but Byrnes felt that if they kept talking at least there was continued hope. Besides he knew that the Russians, unlike American diplomats, relished hot arguments. To them, it was all part of diplomatic negotiation.

Therefore, he thought it was important that these talks not be permanently broken off.

Finally Byrnes hit on the idea of taking advantage of a provision in the Potsdam agreement to call another conference; and to that end drafted a note to Stalin.

The note reminded Stalin that at Potsdam it was agreed the Big 3 Foreign Ministers were to meet in their respective countries, and that they had now met in San Francisco and London. However, they had yet to meet in Moscow. If the United States, therefore, received an invitation to meet in Moscow, Byrnes wrote, it would be happy to accept.

Within a few days, Moscow cabled back inviting the United States and the British to meet there in December.

Kept The Diplomats Talking

The Moscow conference which followed did not bring all the results hoped for, and Byrnes was criticized by some Senators for Russian appeasement. However, it kept both sides talking.

That's one important thing to be remembered about any dispute—whether it be a threatened labor strike or a diplomatic negotiation. A good labor conciliator will keep both sides talking, for once they stop talking, they strike. And once diplomats stop talking, their armies start shooting.

At present, the Big 3 Foreign Ministers have stopped talking—which is dangerous. One diplomatic feeler has come to the State Department from the Russians for a talk between Stalin and Truman, but the White House turned it down.

Asked by a White House visitor the other day, why he hadn't been willing to talk to Stalin, the President replied to the effect that he wasn't going to lick anyone's boots. Only he used words even stronger.

However, with the United States wisely starting a vigorous rearmament program, we are in a position to keep our feet under the diplomatic conference table without bootlicking — especially since we have shown our strength in the recent Italian elections.

In the opinion of this columnist, time is now on our side. The longer we can postpone war, the better chance we have of using the Marshall Plan to build a strong and friendly Western Europe. So it may pay us to keep on talking.

Silent Mr. Harriman

Tight-lipped Secretary of Commerce Averell Harriman remained tight-lipped to the end about his new job of "Ambassador at Large" for the Marshall Plan. Even some of his top assistants were in the dark.

Queried Henry Scharer, one of his aides:

"Is there anything to those press reports, Mr. Secretary, that you are leaving us to become European representative of the Economic Cooperation Administration?"

"Who's peddling that story?" asked Harriman, feigning surprise.

"Drew Pearson," replied Scharer.

"Let's see now," mused the Secretary of Commerce. "Mr. Pearson's accuracy record was around 87½ per cent at last report, wasn't it?"

"What I want to know is," persisted Scharer, "does his prediction about you shoot his accuracy record up of down?"

Harriman changed the subject.

Duke Of Windsor

The Duke of Windsor, not as young as he once was, but almost as handsome, lunched with Senator Barkley, Leslie Biffle and other Democratic leaders the other day.

He talked, not about dancing and night clubs as in the old days, nor about cabbages and kings. Instead, the conversation covered the Italian elections, John L. Lewis, and British coal production.

The Duke described the outcome in Italy as the most encouraging thing that had happened in a long time. Switching to coal, he was quick to rebuff John L. Lewis's criticism that British coal operators opposed mine mechanization.

"There is some mechanization in Great Britain," he said, "but most of our mines do not lend themselves to it because they are deeper and the coal seams narrower than in the United States. That makes the use of machinery difficult and more expensive."

The Duchess of Windsor was not at the luncheon. Her husband told Senators that he was looking forward to golfing on Long Island where he and Wally have leased a home near the Piping Rock Club.

Air Argument Continues

Secretary of Defense Forrestal got a rough going-over from Senators when he opposed the 70-group air program in a secret session of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

"I'm glad to hear that you fellows have finally made up your minds," remarked Senator Dick Russell of Georgia when Forrestal said he and Truman were agreed on 66 air groups. "I've seldom encountered as much inconsistency as the armed services have shown on this subject. They have had their representatives up on the Hill dozens of times with conflicting stories of what our military establishment should be."

"They haven't convinced me," declared Iowa's plain-talking Senator Wilson. "I'm still for the full 70 groups. If we're going to use these obsolete storage planes, then let's spend some money to make them up to date. However, depending on obsolete planes in these advanced times is like living in an old house. You can modernize it to make it more liveable, but it's still an old house."

"The 66-group plan may solve our immediate needs," argued Senator Bridges of New Hampshire. "It may be all right for this year and next but it doesn't visualize the type of aircraft production we may be needing four or five years from now."

Only convert Forrestal made was South Carolina's able Burnet Maybank, who seemed won over to the 66-group compromise.

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH ALSOP

It Hasn't Jelled Yet

THE CONSPICUOUS fact about the stop-Stassen movement is that it has not jelled yet. Both the Dewey and Taft camps talk openly, with a good deal of happy relish, but what they are going to do to the upstart from Minnesota when they get together. But the supporters of Senator Robert A. Taft still assert the grand alliance will be formed around Senator Taft. And the supporters of Governor Thomas E. Dewey are considerably more confident that the man to lead the stop-Stassen forces is Governor Dewey.

From this rather crucial difference, one may infer that the business of forming the combination to stop Stassen, while it has already begun, is still in a very early stage. Meanwhile, there have been further important developments which suggest that if Stassen maintains his present momentum in the Ohio and Oregon primaries, the stop-Stassenites are going to have their work cut out for them.

A week ago, in order to consolidate his own strength in advance of a possible reverse in Oregon, Governor Dewey tried to rally to his standard the large states of Pennsylvania, Michigan and Indiana. It can now be stated that the results have been disappointing.

In Pennsylvania, which has the largest single block of delegates after New York, the customary dark confusion prevails among the local chieftains. Joseph Pew, in his odd way, is rather hankering to nominate Speaker of the House Martin. Old Joe Grundy and Pennsylvania's Senator Martin, who are allies, are reputed to incline to Senator Taft. And Governor James Duff has let it be known that he fancies neither Taft nor Dewey, likes Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg best, but will settle for Stassen or Governor Warren of California. There has been no comfort for Governor Dewey here.

In Indiana, Representative Charles Halleck has given no visible sign of hankering to plump for Governor Dewey now. And in Michigan, there has also been a rebuff in response to the Dewey overtures. Arthur Summerfield, Michigan national committeeman, has taken a "wait and see" position, partly from personal inclination and partly because the great majority of Michigan delegates want to go into the convention and cast their ballots for Senator Vandenberg. The net result of all this is that the Dewey camp, for want of these needed reinforcements, remains in an extremely vulnerable state. A bad reverse in Oregon (which the always fallible experts predict) could cause real disintegration of Dewey's strength, and this would tend to rule out Dewey as the candidate of the anti-Stassenites.

Senator Taft seems to be in equal danger. Until the Nebraska election, Taft's managers said, with some haughtiness, that Governor Stassen would not pick up a single delegate in Ohio. Representative Clarence Brown is now talking as though the capture by Stassen of six or eight delegates in Taft's home state would be a mere bagatelle. Obviously, this indicates alarm. Furthermore, few impartial experts feel that even if Senator Taft is successful in repelling the invader in Ohio, he can possibly become the Republican nominee in view of his record as a vote-getter.

If both Taft and Dewey are ruled out, what then? When this question is perhaps tactlessly asked of them, both the Deweyites and Taftites frankly reply that they would favor Senator Vandenberg. Indeed, the Taft people prefer Vandenberg to Dewey and Dewey people like But here another grave problem Vandenberg vastly better than Taft. arises.

Senator Vandenberg does not want the nomination. He has said, with the utmost firmness, that he would not take it except as the result of a spontaneous draft. Under the circumstances, he seems extremely unlikely to permit his name to be used as the rallying cry of a movement to stop any one. And if it becomes clear that neither Dewey nor Taft is to be nominated, the members of the grand alliance against Stassen will have the utmost difficulty holding even the more sheep-like delegates in line without offering them a conceivably victorious candidate of some sort.

Such is the measure of the rise in fortunes of Harold Stassen, who was actually stranded in Los Angeles for a few hours, shortly before the Wisconsin primary, because his local fund raisers could not lay their hands on $1,800 to get Stassen's private plane off the ground.

For Stassen all depends on Ohio and Oregon. If he is defeated, or merely makes a modest showing, in either state, the old-line Republicans will catch up with him and pull him down. His greatest problem is that Governor Dewey and Senator Taft both feel the deepest personal bitterness toward him, not without cause. But his supporters are confident that he will not fail in the two tests ahead, and in the end will somehow defeat the grand alliance.

Stassen Strategy In His Ohio Campaign Is Being Scrutinized

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, April 26 — Time was when, in the midst of a pre-convention campaign, the leading candidates would take an interest in the selection of a keynote speaker for the convention. The naming of a temporary chairman and a permanent chairman historically has occasioned many a clash between progressive and conservative forces in both parties.

This year all is different. Not a word has come from the progressive-minded Harold Stassen or from Governor Dewey about the naming of Governor Green of Illinois to be temporary chairman of the National Republican Convention. If Mr. Green, who is generally regarded as a member of the isolationist school of thought on international affairs and closer to the conservative point of view on domestic affairs, is acceptable to former Governor Stassen of Minnesota, then something in the way of a political miracle has happened to bring harmony to the Republican Party.

Just how the Illinois leader can, in his keynote speech, speak with enthusiasm about the Marshall Plan and about the leadership that Senator Vandenberg of Michigan gave to that important legislation and at the same time reflect the viewpoint of those in the Republican Party who oppose that sort of internationalism, involves a bit of straddling which is not readily reconciled with the choice of either Stassen or Vandenberg as the presidential nominee.

Stassen Remains Silent

From Senator Taft there would come no dissent, as he has in the past steered cautiously amid the demands of internationalism. Governor Dewey has been super-cautious. So it remained for only one of the leading candidates—Harold Stassen—to be outspoken about it, and he hasn't said a word. Senator Vandenberg insists he isn't a candidate, so presumably it isn't his function to say anything in criticism of the selection of Governor Green.

The naming of the Illinois governor as temporary chairman and of Speaker Martin as permanent chairman is generally interpreted as meaning the conservatives are in control of the Republican National Committee. Presumably the platform committee will also be chosen from conservatives. All this makes highly unlikely the nomination of former Governor Stassen unless public opinion says otherwise. He had everything to gain and nothing to lose by objecting to the choice of a conservative and near-isolationist as the keynote speaker.

The Democratic Party is waiting for an opportunity to inject foreign policy into the campaign if it can possibly be done. If Speaker Martin or Senator Taft should be the nominee, the argument will be that European countries will not feel secure about further aid under the Marshall Plan. If, on the other hand, Mr. Stassen or Mr. Vandenberg should be the nominee, there would be no foreign-policy questions or issues in the campaign.

Democratic Act On Labor Bill Heard

The former governor of Minnesota has apparently tried in the Ohio-primary campaign to give the impression that he is not a conservative—that, in fact, he is friendlier to labor than is Mr. Taft. To help spread this idea, Mr. Stassen accused the Ohio senator of having wanted to make the new labor law more extreme than it is and of having been prevented by "liberal Republicans." The truth is the Taft-Hartley law was toned down to get Democratic votes. If it had not been for the support of these southern Democratic votes, all the "liberal Republican" votes in the Senate would not have been adequate to get the present law passed.

Mr. Stassen implies that he would weaken the Taft-Hartley law. If he is doing this to win labor votes in the Ohio primary, that is understandable. At the same time, such opportunism will not win conservative support in the national convention when the Ohio primary is over. Mr. Stassen's principal difficulty is that Republican conservatives do not think he would stand firmly on the Taft-Hartley Act but would attempt to curry favor with labor unions by repeal or revision. His speeches in Ohio give that impression and would seem to have been a mistake so far as long-range tactics are concerned.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Triumph of Right

THE River Elbe is the dividing line between East and West in Europe, between the Teuton and the Slav, between what Toynbee calls the Western Christian and the Eastern Orthodox civilizations.

Rising in Bohemia, it passes through some of the most important areas of Czechoslovakia and Germany. Into it flows the Moldau, the Weisswasser, the Eger. It passes through the beautiful "Saxon Switzerland," where Frederick the Great fought one of his most important battles. It touches on Dresden, Wittenberg, Magdeburg, and Hamburg and finally flows into the North Sea off Cuxhaven.

It was at Hamburg, between the Elbe and the Alster, that Charlemagne built a fortress in 808 to keep out the Slav and Norseman. The church he erected three years later became the heart of one of the great centers for Christian missionary activitity not only among the Slavs but also in Jutland, the Danish Isles and Sweden and Norway.

Hamburg became under the Holsteins one of the most important commercial cities in Northern Europe and a thriving center of Hanseatic activity. It has ever been a dividing line between European and Slav, between Europe and Eurasia. Bohemia itself is the dividing kingdom between East and West, and Moldau, where it flows into the Elbe, on the Saxon border, is in the Western part of that country.

And so in 1948, the Elbe marks the westernmost movement of the Russian thrust into Europe, the farthest penetration without war. Here they have encountered the hard core of European civilization which is Christianity, in its Catholic and Protestant expressions. Here they encountered not politics and economics but religion — power that resists evil most when evil seems to be most triumphant.

The Italian election is a case in point. Whereas the Communist may shout, "Fraud" "American Dollars," the fact remains that the Italians responded to the direct, religious challenge of the Pope. It became an election for God or the Devil. At no time was the question at stake in doubt; priests were campaigning for the survival of their faith. Against that power, in hard times, Italy responded valiantly for God. This election is one of the most decisive in European history.

And curiously, the Russians have accepted its results as decisive. All the talk of strikes and uprisings was dissipated once the results were in, for the Russians, guided by historical materialism, recognized their defeat as not being accidental but of a repetition of the results of every effort that the Eastern Orthodox civilization has made to overwhelm the Western Christian civilization.

The East has often moved westward but it has always encountered this hard core and has always lost the battle and receded to its own steppes. Europe remains Europe—and Europe is not merely a geographical expression; it is a civilization.

The Ottoman Turks encountered the same experience when they moved into Europe. They were able to conquer in the Balkans but when they reached the gates of Vienna, they came up against the European core of religious faith which stood like an invisible wall against them. It stemmed the tide and although the Osmanli continued for centuries afterwards, thriving on slavery, their creative force had spent itself. The Arabs, earlier, encountered the same core at the Battle of Tours (732) when Charles Martel representing Western Christianity defeated Abdar-Rahman. Gibbon speculates on what might have happened had the Arab won the Battle of Tours:

"A victorious line of march had been prolonged above a thousand miles from the Rock of Gibralta to the banks of the Loire; the repetition of an equal space would have carried the Saracens to the confines of Poland and the Highlands of Scotland: the Rhine is not more impassable than the Nile or Euphrates, and the Arabian fleet might have sailed without a naval combat into the mouth of the Thames.

"Perhaps the interpretation of the Koran would now be taught in the schools of Oxford, and her pulpits might demonstrate to a circumcised people the sanctity and truth of the revelation of Mahomet."

But Tours was not won by the Arab as Vienna was not conquered by the Turk and as the Italian election was not won by the Russians. Europe remains Western.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Add Something To It

Each of us is an inheritor of all that has happened since this earth was created—millions, perhaps billions of years ago. And it is a rich inheritance indeed. Each new period of human history reveals new discoveries and new wonders—and they all belong to each one of us.

It devolves upon each one of us, therefore, to add something to this rich inheritance, no matter how small the contribution. We are inspired by the contributions of Galileo, Socrates, Pasteur, Harvey, Lister, Edison, and a host of scientific and literary lights, whose minds have epriched the thought of all time. It is the privilege of the humblest to add something to it.

Someone is always adding something to our enjoyment and comfort. Many are those who have given to me encouragement and inspiration without ever having met them personally. A friend sends me a book, which I read with interest, and it becomes a link between us. Then I tell you, who may read this Talk—and another link is forged for the increasing chain of knowledge. You add to the sum total of happiness in this world merely by your appreciation.

No matter what our station in life, where we work, or move about, we are privileged to add something that may travel afar! Certainly we should not hoard our benefits and blessings. The winged songster does not. The very air vibrates with its gift of melody.

The final story of a great man, or woman, is never completed. Someone is always adding something to it. Thousands of books have been written upon Napoleon. Hardly a year without one or more books about Lincoln. Discoveries are forever being revealed—in science, and every phase of the arts. Something is being added to knowledge, from every quarter, every day of our lives.

Compare the famous Dr. Johnson dictionary to the latest of today, and what an improvement! The dictionary of tomorrow, however, will be a better one. Something of interest will be added. It is tragic for any of us to allow a single day to pass without adding something to it that will increase the happiness of some one else. Of unknown origin are these lines:

"Count that day lost whose ow descending sun

Frances Davis, J. L. Davis Wed In Double Ceremony

Mary A. Knotts Bride; G. A. Mason Groom

St. John's Catholic Church, Newburg, W. Va., was the scene of the double wedding of Miss Frances L. Davis and her brother, James Leo Davis, daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Davis, 720 Hill Top Drive, Friday morning at 9 o'clock.

Miss Davis became the bride of Gordon A. Mason, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Mason, Pennsylvania Avenue, this city, and Mr. Davis wed Miss Mary Virginia Knotts, niece of Mrs. Bertie Bell, Newburg.

The church was elaborately decorated with bouquets of white carnations, roses and stocks against a background of ferns and smilax. William M. Cockrell, Grafton, cousin of the Davises, played a program of nuptial music, including the wedding march, "On this Day O Beautiful Mother," "Ave Maria," the "Rosary" and "Sacred Heart Divine." Rev. Father Hanley officiated at the wedding ceremonies.

Miss Davis' bridal party included Miss Anna Catherine Davis, who was her sister's maid of honor; Robert Richards, Clarksburg, W. Va., cousin of the bride, and Thomas Stento, ring bearers; Guy Wayne Mason, brother of the bridegroom, best man; and Leon Whitfield, Frostburg.

Miss Knotts had as her attendants her sister, Mrs. Mabel Wigley, Gladesville, as her matron of honor; Miss Maxine Cockrell, Grafton, cousin of the bridegroom, maid of honor; Charles Baylor, Newburg, ring bearer; Leon Lang, Newburg, Mr. Davis' best man, and Joseph W. Hovatter, Cumberland.

Charles Cockrell Clarksburg; and Wallace Cockrell, Newburg; cousins of Miss Davis and Mr. Davis, were the ushers and Miss Angela Brandelena and Miss Joanne Vanzant, the brides' aides.

INCIDENTAL INTELLIGENCE—

The biography of Lenin by David Shub, released by Doubleday yesterday (which was Lenin's birthday) makes it clear that the father of Communism didn't trust Stalin. On Dec. 25 1922, Lenin wrote: "Therefore I propose to the comrades to find a way to remove Stalin." On March 5, 1923, he directed a note to his secretary announcing the severance of "all personal and comradely relations with Stalin.". . .Winston Churchill will preside at the Westminster Abbey unveiling of a bronze memorial to commandos and airborne troops next month. . .To add to the woes of John L. Lewis, 70 coal companies and railroads are spending $250,000 to perfect a completely automatic coal-mining machine, designed to reduce the cost of coal as well as cut down on miners needed for soft coal pits. . .England, incidentally, is having its first anti-strike strike. Surface (transit) workers struck as a protest against a miners' walkout at Ogilvie colliery.

ANNIVERSARY-- A group of the employes of National Biscuit Company are seen here on the occasion of the 50th anniversary of the company, as W. P. Wendt, manager, cuts a birthday cake and serves a slice to Miss Mary Elizabeth Ice. Also in the picture are James Bond, J. R. Winebrenner, William P. Clair, L. S. Ford, and Wayne Light. Sixteen employes attended the celebration.

National Biscuit Company Marks 50th Anniversary With Party Here

Yesterday a surprise golden anniversary party was held for local employes of the National Biscuit Company in celebration of the company's 50th year. Central feature was a birthday cake with one large golden candle burning brightly in the center. The cake was cut by W. P. Wendt, local manager.

During its 50 years of existence the company has been a leader in the packaged baked goods field. One of the largest processors of agricultural products in the country, it has provided employment for thousands of people, returning millions of dollars in taxes to federal, state and local governments.

When National Biscuit Company was organized its executives realized that if real progress was to be made, the cracker barrel had to go.

So they decided to market crackers in sanitary, sealed, trade-marked packages, a thing unheard of. In 1899, "Uneeda" biscuit was introduced—the first trade-marked package of crackers to be sold nationally. Today's attractive food store, with its colorful rows of packaged foods, had its origin in this first bold step taken by National Biscuit Company.

"Uneeda" biscuit was introduced with the help of local newspaper advertising. Seeing the result, the company rapidly extended the advertising throughout the country, using newspapers and other media. Ever since, Nabisco has been a steadfast believer in the power of advertising.

Nabisco is abreast of the modern thinking in the field of personnel relations. It has a comprehensive pension plan covering 28,000 employes, a participating group insurance plan and a well-established suggestion system which pays employes up to $2,500 for constructive ideas to improve the company's methods.

The U. S. Navy and Marine Corps now have 5,793 planes in an active status with an additional 8,245 in storage or otherwise in reserve.

ANNIVERSARY-- A group of the employes of National Biscuit Company are seen here on the occasion of the 50th anniversary of the company, as W. P. Wendt, manager, cuts a birthday cake and serves a slice to Miss Mary Elizabeth Ice. Also in the picture are James Bond, J. R. Winebrenner, William P. Clair, L. S. Ford, and Wayne Light. Sixteen employes attended the celebration.

National Biscuit Company Marks 50th Anniversary With Party Here

Yesterday a surprise golden anniversary party was held for local employes of the National Biscuit Company in celebration of the company's 50th year. Central feature was a birthday cake with one large golden candle burning brightly in the center. The cake was cut by W. P. Wendt, local manager.

During its 50 years of existence the company has been a leader in the packaged baked goods field. One of the largest processors of agricultural products in the country, it has provided employment for thousands of people, returning millions of dollars in taxes to federal, state and local governments.

When National Biscuit Company was organized its executives realized that if real progress was to be made, the cracker barrel had to go.

So they decided to market crackers in sanitary, sealed, trademarked packages, a thing unheard of. In 1899, "Uneeda" biscuit was introduced—the first trade-marked package of crackers to be sold nationally. Today's attractive food store, with its colorful rows of packaged foods, had its origin in this first bold step taken by National Biscuit Company.

"Uneeda" biscuit was introduced with the help of local newspaper advertising. Seeing the result, the company rapidly extended the advertising throughout the country, using newspapers and other media. Ever since, Nabisco has been a steadfast believer in the power of advertising.

Nabisco is abreast of the modern thinking in the field of personnel relations. It has a comprehensive pension plan covering 28,000 employes, a participating group insurance plan and a well-established suggestion system which pays employes up to $2,500 for constructive ideas to improve the company's methods.

The U. S. Navy and Marine Corps now have 5,793 planes in active status with an additional 8,245 in storage or otherwise in reserve.

Advice To The Lovelorn

A Bar Is A Poor Place To Make Friends, Miss Fairfax Says

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a man of 28 who has become much attached to a woman 34 who was divorced five years ago and has a child 11 years old.

I suppose I resent the fact that we met at a bar in 1944, and then by accident I met her at the same bar in 1947 after my absence overseas, during which we did not correspond. She tells me how much she loves me and says she doesn't want to go with any one but me. But I have never told I love her. At times I become a preacher to her, but she does not want to listen, and if I didn't see her any more, she would go back to this same bar for a gay time and in hopes of meeting other male friends.

It is difficult for me never to see her or to try and break off with her because I don't get around much. Yet I am not at ease when considering the possibility of marriage with her. "HARRY"

Dear "Harry":

I think you have put your finger on the root of your trouble when you say the reason you don't want to break off with this woman is because you don't get around much. Evidently, you have few friends and perhaps find it hard to make others. A bar, however, is one of the very poorest places to look for friends, especially friends of the opposite sex.

I am sure that you would be an unhappy man if you married this woman or anybody like her. What you should do is to connect yourself with some reputable organization through which you can meet other people who will be more congenial. There are plenty of places you can go for the right kind of good times, and if you would care to write me a letter and give me your full name and address, I would be glad to make some specific suggestions.

Tiber Dams Planned

ROME—(AP)—A 15-year-old project to harness the Tiber River for electric power and irrigation has been revived. The government has set aside an initial $3,200,000 for the work. Giovanni Antolisei, engineer in charge, thinks that will be enough to pay for five dams and power plants producing 70,000,000 kilowatt hours annually.

Billboard Permit Application Aired

Thomas Litzenburg was instructed yesterday to resubmit his application to erect a billboard in an industrial area, after he questioned the right of the Mayor or Council to deny such a permit, maintaining the zoning ordinance would permit placing the board in that section.

Litzenburg, representing the Tri-State Advertising Company, said a verbal application to erect a board at the corner of Mechanic and Orchard Streets had been turned down April 15 by City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer, who told him Mayor Thomas S. Post had so ordered.

Mayor Post said he had asked to see the applications because the boards in some cases are "obstructing the view of residential areas and collecting filth and dirt."

Commissioners William H. Buchholtz and Edgar Reynolds questioned the city's right in acting on an application since the situation is covered by the zoning law.

Audra M. Taylor, 1308 Oldtown Road, received a refund of $25 for tap and meter rent payments.

Mayor and Council confirmed the appointments of Dr. Winter R. Frantz, as city health officer, and Dr. William F. McFarland as assistant city health officer.

A letter from John T. Fey, attorney for the owner of the Southern Hotel, Mechanic Street, site of the new central bus terminal, asked that a stone sewer situated at the Centre Street intersection be relocated. Delay in the relocation will hold up work on that portion of the terminal, Fey said.

The letter was referred to Reynolds and Rizer.

A letter from William P. Roeder asking city aid in building approaches to his tavern on Will's Mountain was referred to Reynolds.

German Mother Appeals For Aid

In a letter to Mayor Thomas S. Post, a widowed German mother of a young daughter has appealed to Cumberland for aid.

Frau Elizabeth Heinrichs, 5 Albertusstrasse (22A) h. Gladbach, Germany, said in the letter, "Be sure I should not beg you if we should not be in the most distressed position."

Council Passes Ordinances For Water Bond Issue

The Mayor and Council yesterday passed two ordinances calling for sealed bids on bond issues totaling $750,000 to raise money for construction of an auxiliary water line from Lake Gordon to the city.

The first issue, known as "Water Improvement Bonds of 1941" is for $500,000, and the second known as "Water Improvement Bonds of 1945" is for $250,000.

Sealed bids will be received by the city clerk until 10 a. m. May 17 at City Hall when bids will be opened in the presence of Mayor and City Council.

$1,000 Bonds

Coupon Bonds for the $500,000 issue will be of the denomination og $1,000 each dated May 15 and shall bear interest not in excess of four per cent per annum payable November 15 and May 15 of each year. The rate of interest will be designated by the successful bidder but shall be in multiples of one-fourth of one per cent and in addition each bidder will state the amount of money for each $100 of the principal that the bidder is willing to pay.

Bonds will be issued in Series "A" to "Y" inclusive. Series "A" in the amount of $20,000 will mature one year after date and the remainder in the amount og $20,000 blocks from "B" to "Y" inclusive will be payable consecutively from two through 25 years after date.

Bonds will be exempt from state, county and municipal taxation and will be numbered from 1 to 500. Certified checks for an amount equal to two and one-half percentum of the amount of bonds offered to the purchased must accompany each bid, the ordinance states.

Must Collect Payments

The ordinances require the Mayor and Council to charge and collect for the water supplied to residents of the city and vicinity, a sum sufficient to pay the interest and principal of the bonds at maturity provided that receipts from the Water Department are less than expenses in any one year.

The Mayor and Council then shall levy from time to time such amount on the assessable property of the city as may be necessary to pay the bonds issued and the interest, or is empowered to borow not more than $30,000 in any one year and pledge the credit of the city as security. This may be done with the provision that the water rate is increased sufficiently the succeeding year to pay off such a deficit.

The $250,000 issue is essentially the same as the $500,000 with the exception that bonds will be in blocks of $10,000 and be numbered from 1 to 250 inclusive.

Pass Sewer Ordinances

Ordinances were passed providing for the sewering and otherwise improving of Wempe Drive from a point approximately 150 feet north of First Street to the intersection with Second Street; and from Second Street from the intersection with Homer Street extended to the intersection with Wempe Drive.

Cost of the improvements will be assessed against property owners and the levy will be made at a meeting of owners, the Mayor and City Council after the work is completed.

No one appeared to protest the ordinances but a letter from John F. Wempe was filed in which he said that after sewering was completed, he believed residents would rather delay the paving of the street and installation of cement curbs and sidewalk because of the high cost.

Area Bands Enter Festival Event

Several Cumberland district musical organizations will take part in the annual Apple Blossom Festival Friday in Winchester, Va., when Bing Crosby will be parade marshal.

District groups in the parade will include the drum and bugle corps of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, VFW; Sons of the American Legion, Fort Cumberland Post No. 13; Farrady Post No. 24; American Legion, Frostburg; Kelly-Mansfield Post, American Legion, of Piedmont, W. Va.

Bands include Fort Hill High School, Allegany High School, Romney (W. Va. High School, Mathias (W. Va.) High School, Rowlesburg (W Va.) High School and Terra Alta (W. Va.) High School.

There are four prizes for drum and bugle corps totalling $550 while bands will vie for prizes of $200, $150 and $100 for first, second and third places.

The parade will also feature the Army band from Washington and the Marine Corps band from Quantico, Va. A total of 53 bands, 26 drum and bugle corps and 33 floats will be in line of march. The parade starts 2 p. m.

Drivers Pay $90.25 In 11 Traffic Cases

Eleven motorists either forfeited bonds or paid fines yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court totaling $90.25, after being arrested on charges of violating state motor vehicle laws.

Garland A. Hummel, Route 2, Grantsville, paid a fine of $11.45 for exceeding 50 miles an hour on Route 40 Thursday. He pleaded not guilty to the count and filed notice of an appeal which was withdrawn later.

Clarence P. Henry, 13 Boone Street, forfeited $11.45 for exceeding 50 on Route 51, and Pearl M. Powell Allen, 416 Goethe Street, forfeited $6.45 for reckless driving on Route 220. George E. Langham, Barton, forfeited $11.45 for exceeding 50 on Route 49. All four were arrested last week by State Trooper G. M. Rotruck.

Charged with exceeding 30 on Route 40 last Wednesday, William R. Burkett, Route 6, was fined $5.75 after he entered a plea of guilty. William G. Dugan, 135 First Street, Frostburg, forfeited the same amount for passing on a curve in LaVale April 17, and E. S. Barnhill, 107 Columbia Street, forfeited $6.45 for exceeding 30 at LaVale last Wednesday. Trooper G. E. Coddington preferred charges.

Charles Robert Schwinabart, Kitzmiller, forfeited $6.45 for passing on a curve in the Narrows Friday, and Robert A. Langan, 109 Wood Street, Frostburg, forfeited the same amount on a similar count. The latter was apprehended Saturday on Route 40 at Red Hill.

William Barber, Baltimore, forfeited $11.45 for exceeding 50 on Route 40 at Nave's Crossroads Saturday, while William Myrgs, Route 2, Cannonsburg, Pa., forfeited $6.45 for exceeding 30 at Narrows Park Saturday. Trooper William M. McElfish nabbed the four drivers.

My Pet Peeve

(Maybe It's Yours, Too!)
Says YES MAN

Chet Coughenour

I guess every one of us has a secret gripe. Something or somebody we can very well do without. My pet peeve is a rude clerk or sales person who thinks you've got to do business with his company and treats you like a poor relative.

Maybe I'm over-sensitive . . . maybe people really don't object to this treatment. But my staff and I have always believed that the customer is doing us a pretty big favor when he enters our office—and, at Personal Finance Co., we're not shy about letting him know how grateful we are that he's chosen us.

And my staff is especially good at showing appreciation because from the day they join PERSONAL, they are trained to treat the customer as they themselves, would like to be treated.

Cumberland folks who want a loan must like the courtesy and friendliness they find at PERSONAL FINANCE CO., because so many of them have recommended us to their friends. Which proves to me, that we've been successful in doing what we set out to do; provide Cumberland folks with a friendly loan service in which honesty and the ability to make monthly payments are the chief requirements to getting a loan.

We never recommend needless borrowing. BUT if you can use $25 to $750 for a worth-while purpose—consolidating bills, repairing your home, paying medical bills—and you want to get the cash in the way that suits you best—on salary, furniture, or car I'd appreciate the chance to say "yes" to YOU . . . just as I do to 4 out of every 5 who apply for a loan here.

Just phone 721 . . . or, if you're in the neighborhood, come in and ask for me—Chet Coughenour. PERSONAL FINANCE CO., is located on the 2nd floor of the Liberty Trust Building. Open Monday thru Friday, 9 until 5. Closed Saturdays. Evenings by appointment.

Cleveland Beats Chicago In 14th On Circuit Clout

Robinson's 2nd Homer Sews Up Game, 12-11

CHICAGO, April 26 (INS) — Eddie Robinson's second home run of the game and a fireball relief job by Bob Feller today kept the Cleveland Indians undefeated via a 14-inning, 12-to-11, conquest of the White Sox.

Robinson's 14th inning circuit smash was the seventh homer of a wild ball game which was tied at 11-11 in the ninth when Cleveland Manager Lou Boudreau got his fifth hit of the day, a double that drove in two runs.

Trailing 12-11 in the last of the 14th, the White Sox put men on first and second with none out. At this juncture Feller came on to relieve Russ Christopher and become the seventh Cleveland hurler of a day that saw 37 hits for 68 total bases.

Feller smoked called third strikes past Bob Kennedy and Cass Michaels then got Jimmy Delsing on a game-ending fly to center.

Christopher was the winner and Earl Caldwell, fourth Chicago hurler, the loser.

Early-inning homers by Indians Larry Doby, Robinson and Ken Keltner—fifth of the young season for the latter—were balanced by White Sox circuit blows from the bats of Michaels, Tony Lupien, and Dave Philley.

A crowd of 5,965 witnessed the event. Box:

ST. LOUIS, April 26.—(INS)—The St. Louis Browns chalked up a 2-1 victory over the Detroit Tigers today before a crowd of only 1,274 fans.

Pitcher Fred Sanford won his own ball game with a double in the sixth. He scored on hit by Bob Dillinger and Chuck Stevens to break a 1-1 deadlock.

The Browns broke into the lead in the fourth inning when Dillinger walked, moved to second on an infield out and scored on Whitey Platt's double. Bob Swift rapped out his first homer of the season in the fifth to tie the score.

Dizzy Trout was the losing pitcher. Box:

Hyndman Meets LaSalle, Beall Tests Fort Hill

Two Games Today, AHS Invades Central

Hyndman High School's baseball team will invade Cumberland for the second time within a week when the Pennsylvanians tangle with LaSalle High's Explorers today at Stitcher Field at 4 o'clock.

Coach Eddie McVicker's team dropped its Bi-State Conference opener to AHS at Campobello last Friday by the score of 4-3 while on the same day Coach Art Garbark's aggregation was winning over Beall High to the tune of 9-4.

LaSalle, 1947 conference champion, will be seeking its third straight win of the season. The North Centre Street school team holds a decision over Kitzmiller High in a non-conference tilt.

Bill Spangler will work behind the plate and William "Bee' Orndorff will officiate on the bases in today's contest.

The game is being shifted to Stitcher Field on account of a carnival occupying Community Park this week.

Beall Invades Fort Hill

Fort Hill High School will play host to Beall High in another conference game billed for today at 4 o'clock on Fort Hill field.

Coach Bobby Cavanaugh's team launched its conference campaign last Friday with a 15-9 victory over Central High of Lonaconing. The Sentinels are playing .500 ball to date. They've defeated Central and Paw Paw and lost to the Alumni and Williamsport (Md.) High.

Central Host To AHS

In the third conference game of the day Allegany's undefeated nine will battle Central High in Lonaconing at 4 o'clock.

The Campers have bagged four straight contests, two from the West Virginia School for the Deaf and one each from Klosterman's All-Stars and Hyndman.

Here's how the conference teams now stand:

Central Tossers Edge Keyser, 5-4

Ray Ralston Hurls Two-Hit Contest

LONACONING, April 26—Central High School swept its season series with Keyser High School by nosing out the Mineral county tossers here today by the score of 5-4.

Coach John Meyers' team won the game in the 7th and final inning after one out when Lester Dawson tripled, Paul Cook drew a pass, Billy Johnson was intentionally passed to fill the basses and Dawson crossed the plate when Hartman, Keyser catcher, dropped Demasi's throw after the latter had fielded Curtis Johnson's grounder.

Central spotted Keyser four runs in the first inning and then came back with one in the first and three in the sixth to deadlock the count at 4-all.

Ray Ralston, Central pitcher, yielded only two hits, Hanna's double in the first inning and Demasi's single in the second. Thereafter the Orange and Black moundsman hurled hitless and runless ball. He fanned five.

Marvin Lee, Keyser slabster, was nicked for nine safeties, including two doubles by Charley Schramm and three singles by Paul Cook.

The victory was Central's second against a single loss. Box:

Player Suspended, Fined For Assaulting Umpire

DALLAS, Tex., April 26 (AP) — Maurice D. Atwell, Jr., catcher of the Fort Worth Cats, was suspended indefinitely and fined $100 today by President J. Alvin Gardner of the Texas League for an assault on an umpire.

Gardner said he also was fining Manager Lester Burge of the Fort Worth club for failure to control his players.

Citation Heavy Favorite To Win Derby Test Today

Stablemate Is Not Expected To Start

By GAYLE TALBOT

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 26 (AP)—As if he had not already scared enough horses out of the Kentucky Derby, the wondrous Citation is scheduled to flex his muscles again tomorrow in the Derby Trial at Churchill Downs.

It is considered almost a foregone conclusion that the Calumet Farm's long-striding beauty will run all over several competitors in the one-mile event and possibly reduce the derby field even further. It's down to about seven now.

Citation's almost equally noted stablemate, Coaltown, is included in the list of five entries for the trial—last serious tune-up for Saturday's storied race — but nobody really expects the second half of Calumet's one-two punch to reach the barrier.

Odds-On Derby Entry

Ben Jones, general manager and trainer emeritus of the Calumet string, practically has admitted that the streaking Coaltown will not have his eagerly-awaited "match race" against Citation until they both face the starter as an odds-on entry in the $100,000 mile and a quarter derby on Saturday.

That being the case, Citation likely will be asked only to outleg W. L. Brann's Escadru, A. C. O'Neil, Jr.'s Galedo, and Howard Wells' Eagle Look. Citation and Escadru will be even weighted at 118 pounds, while the other two will come in at 110. Coaltown, in the outside event he should start, would pack 115.

Both Escadru and Galedo, as of tonight, were included among the seven probable starters in the derby, with Eagle Look only a vague possibility. What Citation does, or does not do to them tomorrow might go a long way toward making up their owners' minds.

Escadru seems almost certain to take part in the Run for the Roses, even if Citation gives him a blistering. He has been here almost a week now getting ready, ever since he licked Better Self in a test at Jamaica.

Arcaro To Ride Citation

Eddie Arcaro, who will steer Citation on Saturday, is here to get the feel of the "big" horse for the third time. In two rides at Havre De Grace, Md., Eddie has gotten Citation beaten once, by the surprising Saggy, and has ridden him to an easy victory. Arnold Kirkland will be atop his derby mount, Escadru.

The start of derby week found Louisville sweltering in the summer's first real heat spell, and awaiting the expected arrival tomorrow of Ben Whitaker's My Request—the only horse that is given much chance of making Citation and Coaltown stretch out and run on Saturday.

The latest word was that My Request, which chilled a batch of derby hopefuls in last Saturday's Wood Memorial at Jamaica, was being shipped today.

Three Pittsburgh Area Pro Golfers Qualify

PITTSBURGH, April 26 (AP)—Three Pittsburgh area golfers and one from West Virginia qualified at the Fox Chapel Golf Club today for the National Professional Golfers Tournament May 19-25 at St. Louis.

Andy Gaspar of Churchill Valley Club shot 72-71—143 (for 36 holes) to lead the field by eight strokes. His total was one under par.

Others who qualified are 45-year-old Edmond (Monty) Onoretta, Schenley Park Club, 73-78 — 151; Dick Shoemaker, Alcoma Club, the Tri-State PGA champion, 76-76—152 and Edgar (Rut) Coffey, Moundsville (W.Va.) Country Club, former West Virginia champion, 79-74—153.

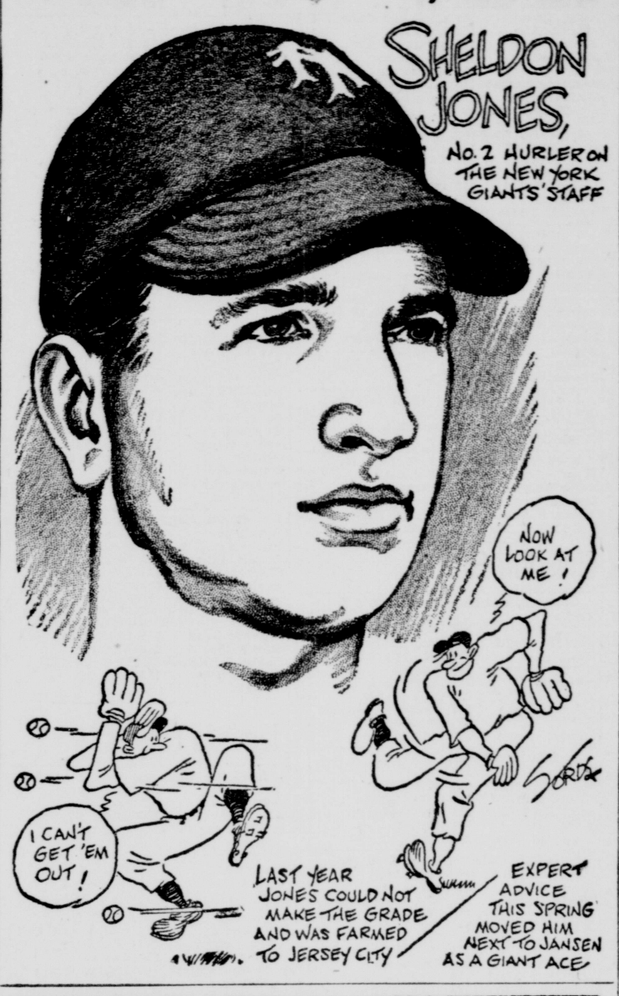
Ted Luther, of the South Hills Country Club, Pittsburgh, was tied for third place with 79-73—152, but said he would not make the trip to St. Louis.

Lew Worsham of Pittsburgh, national open champion, is an automatic qualifier and did not take part in the trials.

Moose Players Meet

All players under contract to the Cumberland Loyal Order of Moose team of the Bi-State Baseball League are urged by Manager John Hafer to attend a meeting at the Moose home tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

NO. 2 MAN — By Jack Sords



The Sportlight by GRANTLAND RICE

Where Are The Pitchers?

Kids who would like to make good money a few years from now, and not work too hard, should start throwing baseballs at various targets.

The N. P. (slang for National Pastime) is running out of pitchers. The N. P. needs more than double its present allotment of right or left arms that can get the ball over the plate with enough stuff to baffle the batter now and then.

Last year, for example, the Dodgers were good enough to win a pennant with a pitching staff composed of three or four-inning hurlers. They usually needed four or five pitchers to finish out one game. Yet they won a pennant.

The American League had only eight or ten pitchers who were able to finish games. Both leagues were shy of arms that could locate a plate or go the distance.

Old-time pitchers such as Ed Walsh, Walter Johnson, Christy Mathewson, Pete Alexander and Cy Young could individually outpitch the greater part of an entire modern staff.

Bob Feller could and can handle his share of work. So can Hal Newhouser. So can Ewell Blackwell. So can Warren Spahn.

Few pitchers today can work 250 innings in a season. Johnson, Walsh, etc., were pitching over 400 innings a year. Any pitcher who can't work 250 innings shouldn't be listed as a starting pitcher. He is certainly no part of a regular. Yet, few pitchers now getting relieved around the fourth inning could think of working 200 innings without an attack of palsy.

Feller — Newhouser — Blackwell — Dickson — Munger — Marchildon — there wasn't a pitcher in the American League last season who worked 300 innings. Feller and Newhouser were the closest.

There wasn't a pitcher in the National League who worked 300 innings. Spahn, Blackwell and Branca were the closest — up around 280. Today, someone you'd rate as an average good pitcher works in less than 200 innings — say 180. And I mean one of the regulars — the starters.

The decline in pitching — old-fashioned pitching — has been startling. This means in games pitched — in games finished — in innings pitched — in bases on balls—in games won (from 30 to 41 a season).

Walsh worked in 67 games one season — winning 40 and saving 12 others. Today the pitcher who can go nine innings without being removed is a local hero.

This is why we advise all kids to start throwing. You won't have to be too good. The pitchers we rate as real pitchers this season are Blackwell, Feller, Newhouser, Spahn, Dickson, Brecheen and possibly Munger, Trout, Houtteman and one or two from Connie Mack's Athletic group. Very likely Brissie. He may be the best.

What's Happened To Chicago?

There is another rather nostalgic feeling in the air today as one turns again to the past. What has happened to Chicago?

There was a day and time when Chicago meant something in baseball. There was a day and time when the Cubs and White Sox were writing their full share of baseball history.

There were the Cubs of Frank Chance—there were Brown and Kling facing Mathewson and Bresnahan. The Frank Chance Cubs won four pennants in five years with one of the great teams of all time. They won 116 games in 1906.

The White Sox have had great ballplayers and winning teams. They had Ed Walsh, one of the all-time brilliants, Joe Jackson—Ray Schalk—rated with Bill Dickey, Gabby Harnett and Mickey Cochrane—too many others to mention. But it has been 29 years since the White Sox even made threatening gestures.

The odd part is that neither Phil Wrigley nor the Comiskeys have made any attempt to strengthen tailend contenders. The Cubs or the White Sox may not finish last. But they are due to give some challenger a lusty battle for the subway championship. They are two of the worst ball clubs in the game.

Another strange angle is that both clubs are willing to accept their second-division spots without making an effort to leave the barren lands.

Cleveland has more than replaced the White Sox. Cleveland has become one of the top sporting cities of the country at either baseball or football.

But the National League has no team to make up for the slack the Cubs are almost sure to bring about. It may be that over a million moody fanatics may come out again this season to watch the Cubs battle to keep out of last place. There have been no set of fans more loyal than the Cub following, but there must be a limit to the beating they'll take this season.

And it might be mentioned that no blame can be hung on Charley Grimm, a grand fellow and a fine manager who will take most of the beating.

Heavier Taxes Asked On Dog, Horse Races

BOSTON, April 26 (AP)—Heavier taxes on horse and dog track bets were demanded today by a state representative, who submitted a plan designed to increase the state's take $1,500,000 a year.

Rep Logan L. Dickie (R-Reading), said two of his bills would increase the graduated tax on bets at horse and dog tracks from five to nine per cent.

Two other bills would give the state all the breakage instead of 50 per cent. Bets are paid on the dime. The breakage is the odd pennies now divided by the state and track.

The state's old age assistance fund is supported by racing revenue.

Hugh Stevenson Trains 4th National Champion

Grover Beagle Hound Cops Third Futurity

Hugh Stevenson of Ellerslie, president of the Allegany Beagle Club and judge of the Allegany County Orphans' Court, now holds the distinction of having trained winners of four national beagle championships.

Three of the performances were registered in successive years when Grover's Nesco Brownie, owned by Carl Grover of Altoona, Pa., was adjudged the best among 96 hounds in the 13 inch division of the annual Futurity at Columbus, Ohio, the past weekend. One thousand persons attended the event.

The Futurity, America's national championship event, was held on four days at Columbus last week and hounds owned by Grover and trained by Stevenson captured first and fourth places. The fourth place winner was Grover's Nesco Sandy.

Trio From Same Family

In 1946 at Youngstown, Ohio, Grover's Nesco Vici won the Futurity under Stevenson's expert handling and in 1947 at Youngstown, Grover's Forger II was adjudged the best hound in the show.

The 1946, 1947 and 1948 champions happen to be out of the same mother and father—Grover's Dolly and Grover's Forger—which are also owned by Carl Grover.

The first national champion trained by Stevenson some years ago was Pastime Pat, which was owned by Fulcher P. Smith, formerly of Ellerslie and now of Garrett county. Mr. Smith is now a member of the Maryland Inland Fish and Game Commission. Pastime Pat won national honors at Columbus, Ohio.

Trainer For 25 Years

Stevenson has been training beagle hounds for twenty-five years. He managed the Ellerslie baseball club back in the 1920s and had the honor of introducing William "Chip" Helmick to baseball fans of the county in a series between Ellerslie and Mt. Savage. Helmick later proved to be one of the most reliable pitchers the Cumberland Colts ever had in the Middle Atlantic League.

Koslo Of Giants Beats Phils, 5-0

New York Registers 5th Straight Victory

NEW YORK, April 26 (AP)—Lefty Dave Koslo, making his first league start following a winter operation on his pitching elbow, hurled a seven-hitter against the Philadelphia Phillies today as the New York Giants registered their fifth straight victory, 5-1.

The Giants collected eight hits off Schoolboy Rowe and his two successors, but five of them were for extra bases including Sid Gordon's two-run homer. Whitey Lockman cracked a double and triple and Walker Cooper smashed two doubles.

Rowe, who was tagged for six hits, failed to last out the third inning. Lockman's first inning triple and Gordon's single accounted for the first Giant run. Cooper doubled home a run in the second.

Lockman's double and Gordon's homer, the Giants' 10th of the season, chased Rowe in favor of Ken Heintzelman in the third. Cooper's double off Heintzelman ended the Giant scoring.

Koslo lost his shutout in the eighth when Pinch Hitter Ralph Caballero singled, was forced by Richie Ashburn and Bert Haas followed with a double to score Ashburn. Box:

Voiselle Twirls Boston's Braves To 5-0 Triumph

Stanky Stars At Bat In Win Over Dodgers

BOSTON, April 26 (AP) — Eddie Stanky, traded off by the Brooklyn Dodgers last month, enjoyed a field day in his first crack against his old mates today as the Boston Braves shut out the National League champions 5-0 to end a four-game losing streak.

The little second baseman cracked out a triple, single and drew a walk in four times at bat. His walk came in the first inning as leadoff man and led to Boston's first run. His triple in the third led to another run, and his single in the seventh was followed by Jim Russell's home run. In the field, Stanky handled eight chances cleanly.

Bill Voiselle, who as a member of the New York Giants, defeated the Dodgers six times in 1944, handcuffed the Brooks with three singles. Only one Dodger, Pee Wee Reese, got as far as second base. Voiselle walked three and struck out two. Arky Vaughan and Duke Snider were the others besides Reese to reach Voiselle safely.

Jack Banta, rookie righthander, made his first start for the Dodgers this season, and was belted for single runs in each of the first three innings before he was relieved.

Willard Ramsdell, John Van Cuyk and Phil Haugstad were the other Dodger hurlers. Box:

Robinson's 2nd Homer Sews Up Game, 12-11

CHICAGO, April 26 (INS) — Eddie Robinson's second home run of the game and a fireball relief job by Bob Feller today kept the Cleveland Indians undefeated via a 14-inning, 12-to-11, conquest of the White Sox.

Robinson's 14th inning circuit smash was the seventh homer of a wild ball game which was tied at 11-11 in the ninth when Cleveland Manager Lou Boudreau got his fifth hit of the day, a double that drove in two runs.

Trailing 12-11 in the last of the 14th, the White Sox put men on first and second with none out. At this juncture Feller came on to relieve Russ Christopher and become the seventh Cleveland hurler of a day that saw 37 hits for 68 total bases.

Feller smoked called third strikes past Bob Kennedy and Cass Michaels then got Jimmy Delsing on a game-ending fly to center.

Christopher was the winner and Earl Caldwell, fourth Chicago hurler, the loser.

Early-inning homers by Indians Larry Doby, Robinson and Ken Keltner—fifth of the young season for the latter—were balanced by White Sox circuit blows from the bats of Michaels, Tony Lupien, and Dave Philley.

A crowd of 5,965 witnessed the event. Box:

ST. LOUIS, April 26.—(INS)—The St. Louis Browns chalked up a 2-1 victory over the Detroit Tigers today before a crowd of only 1,274 fans.

Pitcher Fred Sanford won his own ball game with a double in the sixth. He scored on hit by Bob Dillinger and Chuck Stevens to break a 1-1 deadlock.

The Browns broke into the lead in the fourth inning when Dillinger walked, moved to second on an infield out and scored on Whitey Platt's double. Bob Swift rapped out his first homer of the season in the fifth to tie the score.

Dizzy Trout was the losing pitcher. Box:

Hyndman Meets LaSalle, Beall Tests Fort Hill

Two Games Today, AHS Invades Central

Hyndman High School's baseball team will invade Cumberland for the second time within a week when the Pennsylvanians tangle with LaSalle High's Explorers today at Stitcher Field at 4 o'clock.

Coach Eddie McVicker's team dropped its Bi-State Conference opener to AHS at Campobello last Friday by the score of 4-3 while on the same day Coach Art Garbark's aggregation was winning over Beall High to the tune of 9-4.

LaSalle, 1947 conference champion, will be seeking its third straight win of the season. The North Centre Street school team holds a decision over Kitzmiller High in a non-conference tilt.

Bill Spangler will work behind the plate and William "Bee' Orndorff will officiate on the bases in today's contest.

Beall Invades Fort Hill

Fort Hill High School will play host to Beall High in another conference game billed for today at 4 o'clock on Fort Hill field.

Coach Bobby Cavanaugh's team launched its conference campaign last Friday with a 15-9 victory over Central High of Lonaconing. The Sentinels are playing .500 ball to date. They've defeated Central and Paw Paw and lost to the Alumni and Williamsport (Md.) High.

Central Host To AHS

In the third conference game of the day Allegany's undefeated nine will battle Central High in Lonaconing at 4 o'clock.

The Campers have bagged four straight contests, two from the West Virginia School for the Deaf and one each from Klosterman's All-Stars and Hyndman.

Here's how the conference teams now stand:

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
LaSalle	1	0	1.000

By GAYLE TALBOT

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 26 (AP)—As if he had not already scared enough horses out of the Kentucky Derby, the wondrous Citation is scheduled to flex his muscles again tomorrow in the Derby Trial at Churchill Downs.

It is considered almost a foregone conclusion that the Calumet Farm's long-striding beauty will run all over several competitors in the one-mile event and possibly reduce the derby field even further. It's down to about seven now.

Citation's almost equally noted stablemate, Coaltown, is included in the list of five entries for the trial—last serious tune-up for Saturday's storied race—but nobody really expects the second half of Calumet's one-two punch to reach the barrier.

Odds-On Derby Entry

Ben Jones, general manager and trainer emeritus of the Calumet string, practically has admitted that the streaking Coaltown will not have his eagerly-awaited "match race" against Citation until they both face the starter as an odds-on entry in the $100,000 mile and a quarter derby on Saturday.

That being the case, Citation likely will be asked only to outleg W. L. Brann's Escadru, A. C. O'Neil, Jr.'s Galedo, and Howard Wells' Eagle Look. Citation and Escadru will be even weighted at 118 pounds, while the other two will come in at 110. Coaltown, in the outside event he should start, would pack 115.

Both Escadru and Galedo, as of tonight, were included among the seven probable starters in the derby, with Eagle Look only a vague possibility. What Citation does, or does not do to them tomorrow might go a long way toward making up their owners' minds.

Escadru seems almost certain to take part in the Run for the Roses, even if Citation gives him a blistering. He has been here almost a week now getting ready, ever since he licked Better Self in a test at Jamaica.

Arcaro To Ride Citation

Eddie Arcaro, who will steer Citation on Saturday, is here to get the feel of the "big" horse for the third time. In two rides at Havre De Grace, Md., Eddie has gotten Citation beaten once, by the surprising Saggy, and has ridden him to an easy victory. Arnold Kirkland will be atop his derby mount, Escadru.

The start of derby week found Louisville sweltering in the summer's first real heat spell, and awaiting the expected arrival tomorrow of Ben Whitaker's My Request—the only horse that is given much chance of making Citation and Coaltown stretch out and run on Saturday.

The latest word was that My Request, which chilled a batch of derby hopefuls in last Saturday's Wood Memorial at Jamaica, was being shipped today.

Central Tossers Edge Keyser, 5-4

Ray Ralston Hurls Two-Hit Contest

LONACONING, April 26—Central High School swept its season series with Keyser High School by nosing out the Mineral county tossers here today by the score of 5-4.

Coach John Meyers' team won the game in the 7th and final inning after one out when Lester Dawson tripled. Paul Cook drew a pass, Billy Johnson was intentionally passed to fill the basses and Dawson crossed the plate when Hartman, Keyser catcher, dropped Demasi's throw after the latter had fielded Curtis Johnson's grounder.

Central spotted Keyser four runs in the first inning and then came back with one in the first and three in the sixth to deadlock the count at 4-all.

Ray Ralston, Central pitcher, yielded only two hits, Hanna's double in the first inning and Demasi's single in the second. Thereafter the Orange and Black moundsman hurled hitless and runless ball. He fanned five.

Marvin Lee, Keyser slabster, was nicked for nine safeties, including two doubles by Charley Schramm and three singles by Paul Cook.

The victory was Central's second against a single loss. Box:

Player Suspended, Fined For Assaulting Umpire

DALLAS, Tex., April 26 (AP)—Maurice D. Atwell, Jr., catcher of the Fort Worth Cats, was suspended indefinitely and fined $100 today by President J. Alvin Gardner of the Texas League for an assault on an umpire.

Gardner said he was assessing the penalties against Atwell because of an incident at Fort Worth Saturday night when the catcher leaped on the back of Umpire Carl Sandt after the umpire had called a Tulsa runner safe at home plate.

Gardner said he also was fining Manager Lester Burge of the Fort Worth club for failure to control his players.

Three Pittsburgh Area Pro Golfers Qualify

PITTSBURGH, April 26 (AP)—Three Pittsburgh area golfers and one from West Virginia qualified at the Fox Chapel Golf Club today for the National Professional Golfers Tournament May 19-25 at St. Louis.

Andy Gaspar of Churchill Valley Club shot 72-71—143 (for 36 holes) to lead the field by eight strokes. His total was one under par.

Others who qualified are 45-year-old Edmond (Monty) Onoretta, Schenley Park Club, 73-78 — 151; Dick Shoemaker, Alcoma Club, the Tri-State PGA champion, 76-76—152 and Edgar (Rut) Coffey, Moundsville (W.Va.) Country Club, former West Virginia champion, 79-74—153.

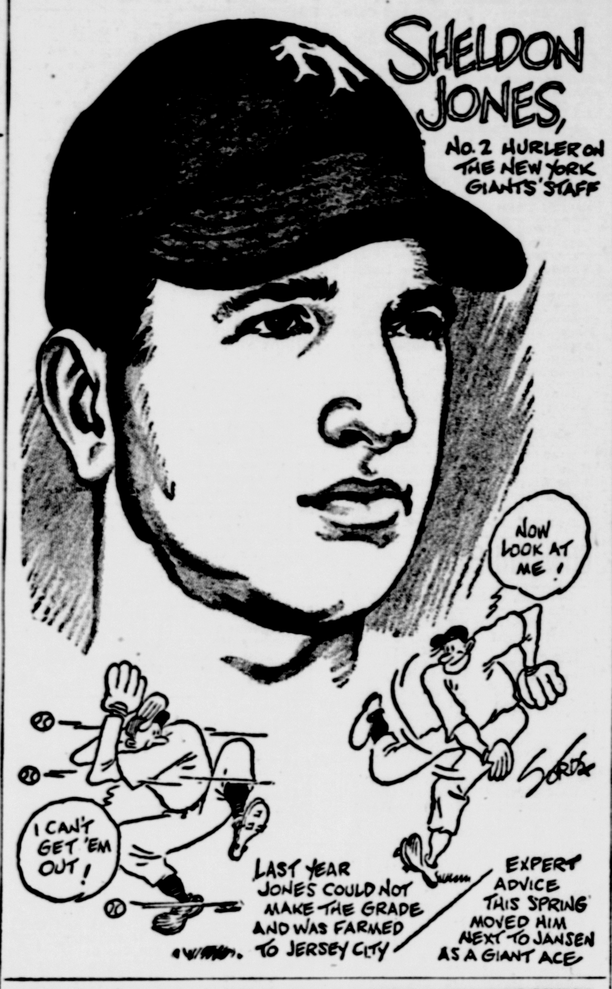
Ted Luther, of the South Hills Country Club, Pittsburgh, was tied for third place with 79-73—152, but said he would not make the trip to St. Louis.

Lew Worsham of Pittsburgh, national open champion, is an automatic qualifier and did not take part in the trials.

Moose Players Meet

All players under contract to the Cumberland Loyal Order of Moose team of the Bi-State Baseball League are urged by Manager John Hafer to attend a meeting at the Moose home tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

NO. 2 MAN — By Jack Sords



The Sportlight by GRANTLAND RICE

Where Are The Pitchers?

Kids who would like to make good money a few years from now, and not work too hard, should start throwing baseballs at various targets.

The N. P. (slang for National Pastime) is running out of pitchers. The N. P. needs more than double its present allotment of right or left arms that can get the ball over the plate with enough stuff to baffle the batter now and then.

Last year, for example, the Dodgers were good enough to win a pennant with a pitching staff composed of three or four-inning hurlers. They usually needed four or five pitchers to finish out one game. Yet they won a pennant.

The American League had only eight or ten pitchers who were able to finish games. Both leagues were shy of arms that could locate a plate or go the distance.

Old-time pitchers such as Ed Walsh, Walter Johnson, Christy Mathewson, Pete Alexander and Cy Young could individually outpitch the greater part of an entire modern staff.

Bob Feller could and can handle his share of work. So can Hal Newhouser. So can Ewell Blackwell. So can Warren Spahn.

Few pitchers today can work 250 innings in a season. Johnson, Walsh, etc., were pitching over 400 innings a year. Any pitcher who can't work 250 innings shouldn't be listed as a starting pitcher. He is certainly no part of a regular. Yet, few pitchers now getting relieved around the fourth inning could think of working 200 innings without an attack of palsy.

Feller — Newhouser — Blackwell — Dickson — Munger — Marchildon — there wasn't a pitcher in the American League last season who worked 300 innings. Feller and Newhouser were the closest.

There wasn't a pitcher in the National League who worked 300 innings. Spahn, Blackwell and Branca were the closest — up around 280. Today, someone you'd rate as an average good pitcher works in less than 200 innings — say 180. And I mean one of the regulars — the starters.

The decline in pitching — old-fashioned pitching — has been startling. This means in games pitched — in games finished — in innings pitched — in bases on balls—in games won (from 30 to 41 a season).

Walsh worked in 67 games one season — winning 40 and saving 12 others. Today the pitcher who can go nine innings without being removed is a local hero.

This is why we advise all kids to start throwing. You won't have to be too good. The pitchers we rate as real pitchers this season are Blackwell, Feller, Newhouser, Spahn, Dickson, Brecheen and possibly Munger, Trout, Houtteman and one or two from Connie Mack's Athletic group. Very likely Brissie. He may be the best.

What's Happened To Chicago?

There is another rather nostalgic feeling in the air today as one turns again to the past. What has happened to Chicago?

There was a day and time when Chicago meant something in baseball. There was a day and time when the Cubs and White Sox were writing their full share of baseball history.

There were the Cubs of Frank Chance—there were Brown and Kling facing Mathewson and Bresnahan. The Frank Chance Cubs won four pennants in five years with one of the great teams of all time. They won 116 games in 1906.

The White Sox have had great ballplayers and winning teams. They had Ed Walsh, one of the all-time brilliants, Joe Jackson—Ray Schalk—rated with Bill Dickey, Gabby Harnett and Mickey Cochrane—too many others to mention. But it has been 29 years since the White Sox even made threatening gestures.

The odd part is that neither Phil Wrigley nor the Comiskeys have made any attempt to strengthen tailend contenders. The Cubs or the White Sox may not finish last. But they are due to give some challenger a lusty battle for the subway championship. They are two of the worst ball clubs in the game.

Another strange angle is that both clubs are willing to accept their second-division spots without making an effort to leave the barren lands.

Cleveland has more than replaced the White Sox. Cleveland has become one of the top sporting cities of the country at either baseball or football.

But the National League has no team to make up for the slack the Cubs are almost sure to bring about. It may be that over a million moody fanatics may come out again this season to watch the Cubs battle to keep out of last place. There have been no set of fans more loyal than the Cub following, but there must be a limit to the beating they'll take this season.

And it might be mentioned that no blame can be hung on Charley Grimm, a grand fellow and a fine manager who will take most of the beating.

Heavier Taxes Asked On Dog, Horse Races

BOSTON, April 26 (AP)—Heavier taxes on horse and dog track bets were demanded today by a state representative, who submitted a plan designed to increase the state's take $1,500,000 a year.

Rep Logan L. Dickie (R-Reading), said two of his bills would increase the graduated tax on bets at horse and dog tracks from five to nine per cent.

Two other bills would give the state all the breakage instead of 50 per cent. Bets are paid on the dime. The breakage is the odd pennies now divided by the state and track.

The state's old age assistance fund is supported by racing revenue.

Grover Beagle Hound Cops Third Futurity

Hugh Stevenson of Ellerslie, president of the Allegany Beagle Club and judge of the Allegany County Orphans' Court, now holds the distinction of having trained winners of four national beagle championships.

Three of the performances were registered in successive years when Grover's Nesco Brownie, owned by Carl Grover of Altoona, Pa., was adjudged the best among 96 hounds in the 13 inch division of the annual Futurity at Columbus, Ohio, the past weekend. One thousand persons attended the event.

The Futurity, America's national championship event, was held on four days at Columbus last week and hounds owned by Grover and trained by Stevenson captured first and fourth places. The fourth place winner was Grover's Nesco Sandy.

Trio From Same Family

In 1946 at Youngstown, Ohio, Grover's Nesco Vici won the Futurity under Stevenson's expert handling and in 1947 at Youngstown, Grover's Forger II was adjudged the best hound in the show.

The 1946, 1947 and 1948 champions happen to be out of the same mother and father—Grover's Dolly and Grover's Forger—which are also owned by Carl Grover.

The first national champion trained by Stevenson some years ago was Pastime Pat, which was owned by Fulcher P. Smith, formerly of Ellerslie and now of Garrett county. Mr. Smith is now a member of the Maryland Inland Fish and Game Commission. Pastime Pat won national honors at Columbus, Ohio.

Trainer For 25 Years

Stevenson has been training beagle hounds for twenty-five years. He managed the Ellerslie baseball club back in the 1920s and had the honor of introducing William "Chip" Helmick to baseball fans of the county in a series between Ellerslie and Mt. Savage. Helmick later proved to be one of the most reliable pitchers the Cumberland Colts ever had in the Middle Atlantic League.

Koslo Of Giants Beats Phils, 5-0

New York Registers 5th Straight Victory

NEW YORK, April 26 (AP)—Lefty Dave Koslo, making his first league start following a winter operation on his pitching elbow, hurled a seven-hitter against the Philadelphia Phillies today as the New York Giants registered their fifth straight victory, 5-1.

The Giants collected eight hits off Schoolboy Rowe and his two successors, but five of them were for extra bases including Sid Gordon's two-run homer. Whitey Lockman cracked a double and triple and Walker Cooper smashed two doubles.

Rowe, who was tagged for six hits, failed to last out the third inning. Lockman's first inning triple and Gordon's single accounted for the first Giant run. Cooper doubled home a run in the second.

Lockman's double and Gordon's homer, the Giants' 10th of the season, chased Rowe in favor of Ken Heintzelman in the third. Cooper's double off Heintzelman ended the Giant scoring.

Koslo lost his shutout in the eighth when Pinch Hitter Ralph Caballero singled, was forced by Richie Ashburn and Bert Haas followed with a double to score Ashburn. Box:

Voiselle Twirls Boston's Braves To 5-0 Triumph

Stanky Stars At Bat In Win Over Dodgers

BOSTON, April 26 (AP) — Eddie Stanky, traded off by the Brooklyn Dodgers last month, enjoyed a field day in his first crack against his old mates today as the Boston Braves shut out the National League champions 5-0 to end a four-game losing streak.

The little second baseman cracked out a triple, single and drew a walk in four times at bat. His walk came in the first inning as leadoff man and led to Boston's first run. His triple in the third led to another run, and his single in the seventh was followed by Jim Russell's home run. In the field, Stanky handled eight chances cleanly.

Bill Voiselle, who as a member of the New York Giants, defeated the Dodgers six times in 1944, handcuffed the Brooks with three singles. Only one Dodger, Pee Wee Reese, got as far as second base. Voiselle walked three and struck out two. Arky Vaughan and Duke Snider were the others besides Reese to reach Voiselle safely.

Jack Banta, rookie righthander, made his first start for the Dodgers this season, and was belted for single runs in each of the first three innings before he was relieved.

Willard Ramsdell, John Van Cuyk and Phil Haugstad were the other Dodger hurlers. Box:

Homewood Boxer Stops Jenkins, Lafferty Wins

Tressler, Lucas Score; 662 See Good Show

Knockouts highlighted the amateur fistic program of St. Mary's Athletic Club last night at the State Armory where 662 cash patrons saw local scrappers battle representatives of the Homewood A. C. of Pittsburgh on even terms in four inter-city contests.

Four of the eight matches ended via the knockout route in one of the best shows staged here this season.

The Homewood Club team comprising four negroes started out in an auspicious manner in the second bout of the evening when hard-hitting Curtis Cole, a fast-punching lightweight, belted out Clarence Jenkins, promising 135-pound novice of St. Mary's A.C. just 58 seconds after the opening gong.

Jenkins Is Flattened

A hard right to the jaw put Jenkins down on one knee. He came up without a count, fell and when he arose for the second time he ran smack into another jaw-crushing right that put him down for keeps. Jenkins' head hit the floor of the ring with a resounding thud and he was really "out." In fact, his handlers worked over him for five minutes before he regained consciousness and had to be assisted to his corner.

Bill Lafferty, St. Mary's welterweight, registered his eighth win in eight starts, when he outpunched Harold Thompson, of the Pittsburgh team, in a lively three-round battle. It was an even-Stephen affair going into the final round then Lafferty put on a whirlwind finish to gain the nod of the referee and two judges. This win evened the score at 1-1 with Homestead.

The Smoky City team went one up on Cumberland when Rudy Flowers, a slim, clever boxer and sharp hitter, completely outclassed Joe Niland, the Amvets' 152-pounder. Flowers flashed an educated left hook that worried Niland but Joe was in there trying hard and tried to make a fight of it against a much superior foeman. Niland tried to tag Flowers with his famous right uppercut but the blow missed repeatedly because Flowers beat him to the punch on most occasions. The Pittsburgher won every round and romped off with a 3-0 verdict.

Goss Stiffens Powell

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, April 26—(INS)—I want to be the first to tell you that Betsy Drake is a younger edition of Claudette Colbert and that Dore Schary has himself a star.

Louella Parsons

I saw the extensive test she made with Cary Grant for "Every Girl Should Be Married," and she is the most promising newcomer I've seen in many a day.

Recently, she won applause in London for her performance in the English production of "Deep Are the Roots," when the play closed, she came to Hollywood, looked up Cary Grant, whom she had met over there. Cary took her over to see Dore Schary. She made this test, and she was immediately signed to a contract.

• — • — •

You may look for some of MGM's best stories to go to Van Heflin, when Arthur Ripley, producer, director and writer, moves onto the lot to make his first picture, "Few Are Chosen." Van will be his star. One reason for this Heflin urge is because Van's fan mail shows he is all right with the ticket buyers.

Authored by the Reverend E. J. Edwards, of Tucson — former missionary in the Philippines and China — "Few Are Chosen" concerns five theological students; only one (Van) becomes a priest.

• — • — •

Leslie Howard's young son, Ronald, is making pictures in England. He looks so like his father did when I first met him, that I couldn't believe a photograph Mrs. Howard showed me, wasn't Leslie.

The first day Ronald started, a grip, who had worked with Leslie, looked up just as Ronald was coming through the door in his costume, and fainted dead away.

"I've seen a ghost," said the grip.

That's how uncanny the resemblance of the boy is to his father.

Mrs. Howard says her son has a lot to learn yet, but she believes that with experience and practice he is going to have his father's ability.

• — • — •

Chatter in Hollywood: Mickey Rooney should really grow up. He made such a spectacle of himself at Ciro's, under the guise of being delighted with Peter Lind Hayes, that he almost spoiled Pete's act. He laughed, and jumped and yelled, and in his boyish delight, almost fell on the floor.

Mickey is no longer a juvenile — or is he? He was with two girls and another boy, who behaved very well. There were moments when you could hardly hear Peter for Mr. Rooney's antics.

• — • — •

Dick Haymes says he will make no more musicals. He told me just before he left for New York that he is definitely through with musical comedies.

"Don't get me wrong," said Dick. "I'm not crazy enough to stop singing altogether. Instead of musical comedies, where the action stops for a song while a 100-piece orchestra steps out of nowhere, I want songs to be used only where they can be woven in as an integral part of the plot."

• — • — •

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Mrs. Gordon Jenkins, wife of the composer and musical director of the Dick Haymes show, is expecting a baby in the late summer.

Orson Welles is reported on the sick list in Rome, and it is said he won't be back for sometime. Maybe he can't face those reviews of his last picture.

Billy Wilder, who leaves for New York and Eurape Sunday, will spend eight weeks in France, Switzerland and Italy, looking for a story to make.

Marion Hutton, Betty's sister, and Don McGuire, Columbia actor, a happy twosome at the dells.

Alan Jenkins, driving to Long Island, was stopped by a cop in Brooklyn for some minor driving infraction. The cop said, "Who's driving now — you or your cat?" Jenkins shook his head, "Oh, no — this cat can't drive in New York."

Alfred Lunt, who hasn't been well, will cut down his tour of "O Mistress Mine" and go with Lynn Fontanne to their Wisconsin farm, May 29.

Hoagy Carmichael opens at the Casino in London, August 9. All of our actors it seems are going there.

Miriam Hopkins goes to Bermuda for two weeks, and leaves for Hollywood and "The Heiress" the last of May.

That's all today.

Of the more than 40,000 naval officers now on active duty, more than 13,000 or approximately 30 per cent, are qualified as naval aviators.

Frostburg Legion Group To Attend Festival Event

Drum, Bugle Corps To March In Parade

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG—Frostburg will be represented in the Apple Blossom Festival parade at Winchester, Va., Friday by the 60-piece drum and bugle corps of Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion, which in the two years since it was organized has been equipped with instruments and uniforms at a cost of $6,265.

Present indications are that every member of the outfit, excepting Dan Dilley, who is attending the University of Michigan, will appear in the parade in competition with some of the best drum and bugle corps in the country in the senior classification.

A chartered bus will leave the American Legion home, East Main Street, at 9 a. m. Friday to transport the members to Winchester. More than a dozen privately owned cars will leave at the same time with Frostburgers and others who plan to attend the festival.

Frank T. Powers, post commander, and other officers of Farrady Post will accompany the drum and bugle corps.

School Reorganized

The Sunday School of Mt. Zion Church, Longstretch, Garrett County, was reorganized Sunday with Charles C. Layman elected superintendent; Miss Agnes Wilhelm, secretary, and Miss Leanna Layman, treasurer.

Primary No. 1 teacher is Miss Agnes Wilhelm, with Mrs. Bill Willing, assistant. Mrs. Herbert Pope is the teacher of primary grade No. 2, with Mrs. Lloyd Morton, assistant. Mrs. Samuel Crowe is the teacher of the intermediate class and Forest Michael is the adult Bible class instructor. Miss Leanna Layman is organist for the Sunday School.

Applications Sought

Company D, 115th Infantry, Maryland National Guard, is in urgent need of a mess sergeant or first cook. Anyone qualified and interested may secure additional information from Captain Reeves, who will be at St. Michael's Hall, the company's temporary armory, tonight.

The newly organized rifle team of the company will go to Cumbeland tonight for their first match in a series of competitive matches under sponsorship of the battalion.

The company is making plans for the summer encampment. Additional clothing and equipment have been issued to the members.

Room To Be Dedicated

The new Sunday School room of Salem Evangelical and Reformed Church, Broadway, now practically completed excepting the doors, will be dedicated Sunday, May 30, at the regular morning church service.

The Verdict From On High

About a month before the Wisconsin primaries, H. V. Kaltenborn, the oracular foghorn of the air, advised his listeners to watch "what Stassen does in Wisconsin." This of course, is what a lot of people were already doing, but Mr. Kaltenborn's portentous voice like thunder on a distant hill gave the event a deeper significance, a profound but at the moment inexpressible meaning. Mr. Kaltenborn didn't say Stassen would do well in Wisconsin or that he'd do badly, just that he'd do something.

H. V. Kaltenborn

News takes on an added intensity, a different perspective and in many cases a total disproportion when delivered in the Kaltenborn voice. His is one of the last of the old free-wheeling larynxes whose inflections count for more than the words. Mr. Kaltenborn does go out on limbs but, in recent times, he hasn't ventured there until the limb has been pretty well tested. Not long ago, he said: "If I had to guess today, I'd say it was Vandenberg and Stassen—UNLESS—Taft makes a deal with Dewey." That particular limb has been pretty well explored before he got there; it embraces all four leading Republican candidates; it contains a great big "if"; still it's a prediction of sorts. Watch Mr. K. in June, I'd say.

Kaltenborn has been out on some sound limbs and some pretty bad ones Four hours before Germany invaded Poland he said negotiations were still a pretty good bet. On the other hand, in his celebrated twenty-day ordeal in which he delivered 102 broadcasts ranging from two minutes to two hours, he was right most of the time both as to the seriousness and the results of the Munich crisis. Since the war he has insisted repeatedly that this country went too far in the prosecution of war crimes; he has campaigned for an end to the destruction of German war plants and he has expressed the opinion that France arrested too many Frenchmen who collaborated with the Germans. Mr. Kaltenborn, of course, has a right to his opinions.

Now on the brink of seventy, the thunderous voice, one of the most positive on the air, still booms forth three times a week (N. B. C. 7:45 p. m. E. S. T. Mondays, Wednesdays Fridays), supercilliously disapproving most union activities, chiding the State Department with the resigned exasperation of a parent to a small boy, noting with grimlipped dissatisfaction the deplorable state of Yuddup and Ameddica in an accent that defies classification

In many respects Kaltenborn belongs to the music department rather than to this one. "We must insist on paying the price for peace —OR—we shall pay the price for waw." That's a fair sample of the Kaltenborn style—cadenced, balanced and delivered in a fairly elementary musical progression starting with G natural and proceeding to E flat.

This recitative, vaguely ecclesiastical delivery has given Kaltenborn a phenomenal grasp on the minds of women. It brings an air of authority to almost any utterance, no matter how mild. There is another reason for this appeal to women. Where other commentators are complicated, he can make things remarkably easy to understand, at the expense of some whopping over-simplifications. Recently, for example, he explained that the high cost of motion pictures was caused by union restrictions. Since the high cost of motion pictures is an extremely complex problem, one which has baffled much deeper thinkers than Kaltenborn, it can't possibly be dismissed that easily.

But that, I should say, is the secret of Kaltenborn's success. He doesn't so much deliver the news as hand down the verdict—dramatic, censorious and bearing the seal of utter finality. This crisp, opinionated voice has been on the air since 1923; the outlook behind the voice is, I think, far too narrow for the complexities of modern society; and the influence has fortunately long since been lost to such dry, factual, inteligent voices as that of Edward R. Murrow.

Gen. Bradley To Make Talk To Mag. Publishers

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, April 26—The chief of staff, Gen. Omar Bradley, is to be on the air via MBS at 10:30 Tuesday night. It will be his address to the National association of Magazine Publishers in New York. Topic is to be "The Challenge to America."

This is Kentucky Derby week, so CBS at 6:15 is to have 15 minutes from Churchill Downs for the Derby trial, last tuneup before the big event on Saturday.

Topic for America's Town Meeting as it comes from Charlotte, N. C., for ABC at 8:30 is to be "Will the Third Party Bring Us Peace and Prosperity?" For will be Sen. Glen H. Taylor of Idaho and James Stewart Martin of Maryland. Against are listed Dorothy Thomson and Dwight MacDonald, editor.

Charles Laighton has promised CBS that he will be around an hour, with rehearsals thrown in, for the Studio One drama at 10. The play will be the English story "South Riding." Incidentally, the program is observing its first anniversary.

Both the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral society are to participate in the weekly Boston symphony concert on ABC at 9:30. Reason is that it is the weekly Boston symphony's concluding broadcast of the season. Next week the Boston pops concerts will take over the time.

Bob Hope says he expects Jimmy Durante to do some NBC guesting for him at 10. Marion Hutton also is listed to help out in the guest singing division.

Mr. Kaltenborn does go out on limbs but, in recent times, he hasn't ventured there until the limb has been pretty well tested. Not long ago, he said: "If I had to guess today, I'd say it was Vandenberg and Stassen—UNLESS—Taft makes a deal with Dewey." In many respects Kaltenborn belongs to the music department rather than to this one. "We must insist on paying the price for peace—OR—we shall pay the price for waw." That's a fair sample of the Kaltenborn style—cadenced, balanced and delivered in a fairly elementary musical progression starting with G natural and proceeding to E flat.

This recitative, vaguely ecclesiastical delivery has given Kaltenborn a phenomenal grasp on the minds of women. It brings an air of authority to almost any utterance, no matter how mild. In loving memory of Geraldine (Kalbaugh) Laffey who departed this life 16 years ago, April 27th, 1932.
"DAUGHTER"
I do not need a special day,
To bring you to my mind.
The days I do not think of you,
Are very hard to find.
If all this world were mine to give,
I would give it, yes, and more,
To see the face of my dear Daughter,
Come smiling through the door.
A token of love and remembrance,
Of a Daughter I shall never forget,
Her memory to me is a treasure,
Her loss a lifetime regret.
GOD GRANT HER ETERNAL REST.
Sadly missed by her mother,

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to express our appreciation and thanks to our friends, neighbors, those who donated their cars, sent flowers, and the Reverend A. Wm. Von Kaske; for their friendship and good will accorded us during our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved Mother, Mrs. Gertrude E. Hamilton.
HER CHILDREN and FAMILY

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Geraldine (Kalbaugh) Lafley who departed this life 16 years ago, April 27th, 1932.
"DAUGHTER"
I do not need a special day,
To bring you to my mind.
The days I do not think of you,
Are very hard to find.
If all this world were mine to give,
I would give it, yes, and more,
To see the face of my dear Daughter,
Come smiling through the door.
A token of love and remembrance,
Of a Daughter I shall never forget,
Her memory to me is a treasure,
Her loss a lifetime regret.
GOD GRANT HER ETERNAL REST.
Sadly missed by her mother,
JESSIE KALBAUGH.

Steady Selling Tumbles Leading Stocks Fractions To Four Points

NEW YORK, April 26 (AP)—Steady selling in today's stock market dropped leading shares fractions to an extreme of around four points lower.

The average decline equaled the sharpest setback security prices have experienced since February 10.

Rails, farm implements and oils were principal victims during most of the session, but skidding tendencies spread in the final hour to pivotal motors, steels and metals. Final prices in some instances were narrowly above the lows of the day.

Sales of 1,410,000 shares were far below the 2,470,000 traded in the last previous full session Friday. North American was off narrowly as stockholders were told it proposes to stay in business as a public utility holding company.

Down a point or more were Union Pacific at 178½, Central Railroad of New Jersey at 17, Southern Pacific 54, Texas Company 59½, Mission Corporation 62, United States Steel 76, Bethlehem 34½, Chrysler 59, General Motors 57⅛, International Harvester 93¾, American Smelting 58 and American Woolen 46¾.

Plymouth Oil touched a new 1948 high before slipping fractionally lower. Holding narrow gains to the close were Atlantic Coast Line, Allied Chemical, Spiegel, United Aircraft and American Can.

Prices were irregularly lower as the bond market slowed from last week's pace and trimmed some of its advances.

Steady Selling Tumbles Leading Stocks Fractions To Four Points

NEW YORK, April 26 (AP)—Steady selling in today's stock market dropped leading shares fractions to an extreme of around four points lower.

The average decline equaled the sharpest setback security prices have experienced since February 10.

Rails, farm implements and oils were principal victims during most of the session, but skidding tendencies spread in the final hour to pivotal motors, steels and metals. Final prices in some instances were narrowly above the lows of the day.

Sales of 1,410,000 shares were far below the 2,470,000 traded in the last previous full session Friday. North American was off narrowly as stockholders were told it proposes to stay in business as a public utility holding company.

Down a point or more were Union Pacific at 178½, Central Railroad of New Jersey at 17, Southern Pacific 54, Texas Company 59½, Mission Corporation 62, United States Steel 76, Bethlehem 34½, Chrysler 59, General Motors 57⅛, International Harvester 93¾, American Smelting 58 and American Woolen 46¾.

Plymouth Oil touched a new 1948 high before slipping fractionally lower. Holding narrow gains to the close were Atlantic Coast Line, Allied Chemical, Spiegel, United Aircraft and American Can.

Prices were irregularly lower as the bond market slowed from last week's pace and trimmed some of its advances.

Motive, Clues Are Sought In Luke Explosive Threat

Three Powder Sticks To Be Sent To FBI

Informed that 100 sticks of explosive were stolen from a small mine operation near Luke recently, Maryland State Police last night searched for a motive as well as clues in the attempted destruction of the community's water supply Sunday.

Three sticks of the explosive, two of which were found Friday in the planing mill of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, Luke plant, will be sent to an FBI laboratory, according to Luke Chief of Police Joseph Wilks.

Minimized at first for their explosive power when ignited by flames, the eight-inch-long sticks last night were reported potent enough to blast the entire water supply structure, according to State Police officials.

First Sgt. W. E. O'Hara said he was informed that if paper in which one stick was found at the Luke water tower control room would have continued to burn, it could have blown the entire works up. Police at first said a detonation cap was necessary to touch the explosive off.

Checking Information

Cpl. Harry Holsinger, who is investigating the case with Trooper First Class William Baker, was reported in the Luke section late last night checking information in an effort to make an early arrest in the case, which police admit is baffling.

The explosive stick was discovered Sunday at 8 p. m. in the brick control room of the water tower, wrapped in a piece of partially burned paper, by Town Commissioner Edward Duckworth.

Duckworth, himself an employe at the paper mill, according to police, went to the water tower, which contains enough water to supply the community of 1,000 for a 24-hour period, after the steel door lock was reported broken.

Police last night confirmed the fact that the door lock was forced, but said they have not yet established the method used to break the lock.

The theft of 100 sticks of explosives was reported to area police officials State Police said last night, but the case was not solved.

Could Be Purchased Easily

Chief Wilks said the explosive is used in mining operations and could easily be purchased in a mining community. Luke, although an industrial town, is located near several mining operations.

State Police were called in on the case Sunday night after the explosive stick was found in the control room of the water tower. The two sticks found Friday in the planing mill were turned over to Safety Director John J. Long, of the plant, who notified Luke police.

The tower does not furnish water for the paper mill, according to police, who are puzzled by the fact that an attempt was made on the community water supply.

However, they likewise were unable to advance a motive for the two sticks that were discovered in the mill department Friday.

The water tower was described as a structure about 20 feet high and between 20 and 25 feet across.

Markey charged election irregularities.

Koppers Workers Authorize Strike At Green Spring

Conciliator To Attend Meeting Here Thursday

Members of Local 453, Teamsters Union, AFL, employed at the Koppers Company's Green Spring, W. Va., tie treating plant, have empowered their negotiating committee to call a strike, if necessary, in securing a new contract with the firm, C. E. Stutzman, business agent reported yesterday.

He said the action was taken Sunday when members met at Green Spring and rejected a company contract offer. No date was set, he added, explaining the action merely gives the group permission to call a stoppage whenever it sees fit. The present contract expires Friday.

The union has rejected an offer of a six cents an hour wage increase with three and five cent additional for second and third shift workers and six paid holidays, the union said. Members had asked a 30 cent boost with proportionate increases for shift workers.

Conciliation Commissioner Gantz will attend a meeting called at Teamsters Hall Thursday at 2 p. m. in an effort to avert a work stoppage, the union said.

The union has represented the some 125 workers at the plant for the past four years without a work stoppage.

Pepsi-Cola workers represented by the union met yesterday at Teamsters Hall and rejected a contract offer of the firm, Stutzman said, adding that negotiations are expected to resume Wednesday or Thursday.

Addition Planned For Local Church

Rev. Kenneth Harrington, pastor of Pentecostal Holiness Church, secured a permit yesterday in the city engineer's office to build a front addition to the church, located at 123 South Lee Street, for a vestibule and rest rooms.

The one-story addition, which will measure eight by 10 feet, will have a concrete foundation, concrete block walls and slate surface roofing. Work is estimated to cost $400.

A permit was granted to James F. Runne, Route 2, Winifred Road, to build a one-story garage on part of Lot 6-B, Winifred Road, at an estimated cost of $150. The structure, 10 by 20 feet, will have a concrete block foundation, frame walls covered with aluminum sheeting, and an aluminum roof.

Mrs. Elsie H. Pabst, 13 North Waverly Terrace, obtained a permit to make improvements estimated to cost $400 at her curtain shop, 160 Bedford Street. A rear porch will be enclosed with concrete block and the two present front windows will be replaced with one large window.

R. O. Upole, Route 6, Bowling Green, secured a permit for the West Side Motor Company to use a lot at 722 Greene Street for a new and used car business. The vacant lot, owned by Former Police Chief Oscar Eyerman, 541 Rose Hill Avenue, is located in a busines zoning district.

The office building will be a one-story temporary structure, 8 by 12 feet, with frame walls covered with asbestos sheeting inside and out, and an asbestos roof.

S. C. Marquardt, representing the National Cash Register Company, 127 North Mechanic Street, secured a permit to move the business to 126 North Centre Street, formerly occupied by the Enterprise Amusement Company. The first floor will be used as an office and sales room. Aaron Lazarus, 28 North Liberty Street, is owner of the two-story brick structure.

A building permit has been issued to Rex E. Teets to build a second story on a frame dwelling at Lot 5, Golden Lane. Cost is estimated at $100 and construction will be done by Teets. The addition will be of frame with a composition roof.

ESCAPED DESTRUCTION—State police were seeking for a motive and clues last night in an effort to solve the attempted destruction of Luke's water supply tank, which was threatened Sunday night when a stick of explosive, wrapped in a piece of burning paper, was tossed in the brick control room shown above beside the water tower. The lock on the tower door was battered off, as the insert at left shows. The tower holds a 24-hour water supply for Luke's 1,000 residents.

Melchior Kolb, 66, Accident farmer, was admitted to Memorial Hospital early yesterday afternoon for treatment of a mashed right leg suffered when he was pinned beneath a tractor yesterday morning.

The Garrett County farmer told attaches the tractor he was operating upset and fell upon him, mashing his right leg.

Attaches said he was in fairly good condition last night after lacerations on the leg were sutured and a cast applied to the broken leg.

Also treated in Memorial Hospital yesterday were:

William H. Green, 57, Route 4, Oldtown Road, at 8:10 a. m. for a small laceration on the head suffered when he was struck by a crane at the Cumberland Steel Company.

Purse Thief Makes Third Appearance

The third "sneak into a West Side house and steal a purse" incident was reported to police last night by Mrs. Joseph Moore, 714 Fayette Street, who said her purse containing about $2 was stolen from the dining room buffet.

Police said the theft, according to Mrs. Moore, occurred Sunday night between 8:30 and 9 o'clock, about the same time that a similar incident reportedly occurred at the home of Dr. Samuel M. Jacobson, 733 Gephart Drive.

Another such sneak-thief incident was reported by Jack Steiner, Hancock, who told police he was visiting R. C. Durant, 521 Fayette Street, when someone entered the kitchen door and stole his wife's purse containing $100 from the kitchen table.

Police said Dr. Jacobson told of seeing an arm reach through the screen door and grab his wife's purse.

Fire Captain Hurt In South End Blaze

One fire fighter was injured in extinguishing a blaze which caused considerable damage to the Royale Athletic Club gymnasium, 102 East Second Street, early last night.

Capt. J. T. Defibaugh, who directed South End Fire Company in fighting the fire, was treated in Memorial Hospital at 10:25 p. m. for a laceration on the right wrist suffered when a line kicked back and forced his wrist against a window sash while he was working on a ladder to quench the blaze in the gym located over a garage.

Firemen said the blaze which apparently started in some ice cream cartons and equipment was under control within 20 minutes after the company arrived at 9:27 p. m. The building is owned by Presley Mauk, who is affiliated with the gymnasium.

Orbello Posts $500 Bond On Gaming Law Charge

Complainant States He Lost $200 In Game

A North Mechanic Street billiard hall proprietor yesterday posted $500 bond in Trial Magistrates Court after being arrested on a warrant charging "Frank Olbento" with maintaining a gaming device.

Deputy Sheriff William Orr said he and Deputy Sheriff William Chappell served the warrant on Frank Orbello, of Frank's lunch and billiard business, at 113 North Mechanic Street.

The warrant was issued in the office of Magistrate Frank A. Perdew on the oath of Louis Baker, Allegany Inn, who was quoted by authorities as saying he lost approximately $200 in a "confusing" card game at the North Mechanic Street business place Sunday afternoon.

Magistrate Perdew said the warrant was issued shortly after noon yesterday and given to the two deputies to be served. Orbello was taken into custody about 1 p. m. and brought to Magistrates Court where a man identified as John Basile posted the bond.

Orbello was released for a hearing this morning at 10 a. m. in Trial Magistrates Court.

The warrant charges that an illegal gaming table was maintained at the 113 North Mechanic Street address Sunday afternoon, and authorities explained that Baker identified the device as a card game.

A county official said that in obtaining the warrant, Baker stated he became drowsey while participating in the game, in which he was quoted as saying, the cards were shuffled across the board very fast during rounds of betting.

There was no explanation for the difference in the spelling of the name on the warrant and the man arrested. Deputy Sheriff Orr said the warrant was served at the 113 North Mechanic Street address.

Citizens Are Urged To Register Today

With no Republican Primary contest in this county, and the only contest on the Democratic Party that of four candidates seeking the nomination for congress, election observers predict the registration today will be light.

Registration places will be open today from 9 a. m. until 9 p. m. to give persons not on election books an opportunity to become eligible to vote in the May 3 Primary.

Officials call attention to the fact that any registered person who has failed to vote in the past five years must re-register, since names of such individuals have been removed from the books.

Political leaders of both major parties are urging all unregistered persons to register today.

Attaches said his condition was fairly good last night after the severe lacerations were treated in surgery.

Robert Carder, 28, Fort Ashby, W. Va., was treated in Allegany Hospital yesterday for a fractured toe after a bench dropped on his right foot. Also treated in Allegany yesterday were:

Barter Players Return Wednesday To Present Final Play Of Season

Ray Boyle Stars In "John Loves Mary"

The last of the current season's Barter Theatre productions, sponsored by the Junior Association of Commerce, will be presented tomorrow night at 8:15 o'clock in Allegany High School auditorium.

A Norman Krasna comedy, "John Loves Mary," the play is new and modern in every respect. Advance ticket sale indicates the largest audience of the season, even surpassing the record crowd which witnessed "The Hasty Heart" last month, sponsors claim.

Ray Boyle, who made a hit here as the likable Yank in "The Hasty Heart," is cast in "John Loves Mary" in the role of a returning serviceman John.

Selected as last year's outstanding young actor on Broadway, Boyle has had ample opportunity to round out his versatile talents at Barter. Cast in his present role in the season's opening production last summer, he went on to such parts as the romantic Duke Orsino in "Twelfth Night," and Officer Klein in "Arsenic and Old Lace."

Co-founder of the Cherry Lane Theatre in New York while still in his teens, Boyle had just completed an assignment in the Broadway production of "The Great Campaign" when he joined a line of fellow-actors to be auditioned by Helen Hayes for a job with Barter.

Admittedly hazy about the whole idea, the young man arrived on stage, recited lines from a play in which he had appeared two years before, and subsequently learned he had been selected from among 500 contenders as the most promising young actor to appear before Miss Hayes in search of the coveted Barter assignment.

Court Disposes Of Most Cases On Criminal Docket

Pair Found Guilty Of Obstructing Rails

Several criminal appeal cases are set for hearings in Circuit Court today, with civil trials to be resumed tomorrow, it was indicated yesterday as a number of criminal indictments were disposed of.

Dorothy Radcliffe, who was indicted on charges of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle and of burglary, was released from the county jail by the Court, when her case was continued until the October term. Court attaches said a prosecuting witness is being sought. She was represented by Morris Baron, attorney.

Another woman, Betty Lee Harris, indicted by the April grand jury on a charge of forgery, involving signing credit slips on another person's account at a local store, was paroled for three years after being given a year's suspended sentence Saturday. The Court referred her case to David Steele, parole officer of the Division of Parole and Probation.

John F. Gurtler, who entered a plea of guilty to a burglary charge was also paroled for three years to Steele, He was arrested after being captured in an burglary attempt at a Baltimore Avenue store.

Ralph Simpson was found guilty on a charge of paternity and ordered to pay $65 medical expense and $8 per month for 15 years. Edward J. Ryan represented the defendant and the case was heard in Court chambers.

Herman F. Bergman, represented by William L. Wilson, Jr., entered a plea of guilty to a similar charge and was ordered to pay $95 medical expenses and $10 per month for 15 years.

A paternity case against Robert Cunningham was removed from the docket and a similar case against Julian A. Rotruck was marked "settled by state."

Hinkle Case Held Over

The Court has made no disposition of the case of Charles Hinkle, this city, who entered a plea of guilty to a charge of false pretenses Saturday. His case, involving four indictments, was to be disposed of yesterday but was held over by the Court.

Edgar William Bryner, 20, a soldier, held on a charge of assaulting Mrs. Helen C. Stark, operator of a drug store on North Centre Street on April 8, is still in the county jail.

Bryner entered a plea of guilty Saturday and the Court took the case under advisement. Yesterday a conference was held with Bryner and a local recruiting officer and the judges, court attaches explained, in an effort, presumably, to get Bryner back in the Army.

Aaron Coleman, the only traverser thus far in the April term to draw a sentence of time to be served, is in the county jail awaiting removal Wednesday to the House of Correction to serve one year. He entered a plea of guilty to robbing George Swadley, Windsor Hotel employe, of $45 last March 7.

Tavern Operators Fined

James Louis Gormer, who operates a beer tavern on North Mechanic Street, was fined $50 and $12.25 costs after he entered a plea of guilty to selling intoxicants on election day.

Samuel A. House, operator of the Mayflower, Front Street, was fined $50 and $16.10 costs on a similar charge. Both men had previously forfeited $50 bond each in Police Court.

Counsel for Gormer said he did not start selling beer on city primary election day until 7 p. m. when a nearby polling place closed. He was under the impression, his attorney told the Court, he could sell beer after that hour.

Both men were arrested by city police. House was not represented by counsel while William L. Wilson, Jr., was attorney for Gormer. It was pointed out that both these men face hearings before the Allegany County Liquor Control Board for violating terms of their licenses.

Brothers Found Guilty

Harry William Skidmore and Lloyd Skidmore, brothers of Westernport were found guilty by the Court of placing an obstruction in a Western Maryland Railway switch and causing a derailment.

The case took up much of the Court's day yesterday. Counsel for the pair argued they were both mentally deficient and their signed confessions should not be admissable as evidence.

Horace P. Whitworth, Sr., said that Harry, 24, and Lloyd, 21, were both comparable mentally with children between six and ten years of age. One of them, Lloyd, could not speak until he was 9 years old, the court was told. After hearing the facts contained in the confessions and events surrounding their signing, Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge George Henderson admitted the confession into evidence.

Both young men took the stand and denied making statements contained in the confessions and Harry Skidmore said he signed the papers because he was "nervous," Lloyd was vague as to why he signed. They said they were arrested by police and told they had caused a train wreck but maintained the train did not wreck until later.

A Western Maryland Railway train passed over the switch and one car and caboose on the rear of the train derailed tieing up traffic for some time. Chief of Police Joseph Wilks of Luke said he saw the boys near the switch and arrested them for questioning after the wreck had occurred. He said obstructions had been placed on the tracks before. Chief Wilks examined the switch light which was off and also threw a piece of iron away from the switch but did not see two other pieces lodged in the switch.

The Court took the case under advisement and sent the two young men to the county jail to await disposition of the case and sentencing.

David Allen Shelton, Hanover, Pa., who was held in the county jail 19 days as a witness in the case against Dorothy Radcliffe, was released on his promise he would return here in October, if the case is called and he is needed to testify.

Parents Of Pair Warned In Court

Stories of missing money, early morning hotel registrations and automobile rides with "much older" boys were revealed as two 11-year-old local school girls were committed to a state institution for acts of juvenile delinquency.

Authorities said the parents were given suspended jail terms after receiving stern lectures in Juvenile Court on their failure to rear the children properly.

"It's one of the worst cases on record," Arthur G. Ramey, county pupil personnel supervisor, said in explaining how one of the girls was quartered in a local hotel room by her father and left as guardian of two younger children for long periods of time without adult supervision.

Went For Ride

Investigation revealed that on one occasion both of the elementary school girls were taken for an automoible ride by young men in the early morning hours, Ramey said, adding the party crossed over the state line into West Virginia.

Declining to name the children in keeping with policy of the pupil personnel department, Ramey said the girls roamed the streets of the downtown business section at all hours of the night and morning, open to every type of mischievous act.

The one child was placed in a local hotel about 10 months ago, according to Homer Higgins, visiting teacher, who investigated the case, and her father paid the bill and also made provisions for her to eat at a downtown restaurant.

The girl was responsible for two younger children who are students in local elementary schools, but was free to do as she pleased and come and go when she desired. Her school attendance record was bad, Higgins stated.

On at least one occasion, the other 11-year-old girl is known to have obtained a room in a local hotel at 1 a. m. without explanation of why she was alone or the whereabouts of her parents, Ramey declared.

The parents of one girl are separated and the father of the other is a hospital patient, according to Higgins, who said the parents of one are old offenders on juvenile delinquency charges. "They have been in court many times concerning older children who are now grown up," Higgins stated.

Touched Off By Truancy

Repeated truancy from school on the part of both girls along with a recent investigation after one girl was reported missing for over 48 hours touched off the probe by school officials.

Later, Higgins stated, one of the girls was connected with various sums of money that have been disappearing from a fund in a local elementary school.

Ramey, who expressed complete disgust with the conditions under which the two children were being reared, said, "Parental neglect and indifference to the welfare of these two children are the biggest contributing factors to the plight they are now in."

Afer explaining that the girls were taken for automobile rides by youths much older, Ramey and Higgins both said further investigation into the cases is planned to establish identity of other persons contributing to the delinquency of the pair.

The girls were committed to the Montrose School for Girls for an indefinite period and the parents, who were charged with contributing to juvenile delinquency, were given suspended jail terms.

The parents were warned by the Juvenile Court magistrate that should similar circumstances arise with other minor children in the family they will be given long jail sentences, authorities said.

Country Club Playground To Open June 6; Tennis Classes Planned

The playground at the Cumberland Country Club will open Sunday afternoon, June 6, under the supervision of Miss Phyllis Burley, a sophomore at Frostburg State Teachers' College, according to Mrs. Gordon Bowie, chairman of the playground association committee.

Mrs. Bowie said the playground will be open Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays from 10:30 a. m. until 5 p. m., and on Fridays and Sundays from 1 p. m. until 5:30 p. m. It will be closed on Mondays and Saturdays, with the exception of Monday, July 5, and Monday, September 6.

Children may bring picnic lunches, and the lunch hour will be supervised by Miss Burley.

A dance for the benefit of the playground will be held Saturday, May 22, at the club. Proceeds will be used to purchase additional equipment.

Equipment already on hand from last year includes a large tent, a sandbox, two small swings, one small slide and a badminton set.

The committee has ordered a large stainless steel combination playground set at a cost of $200. The set is eight feet high and has two swings, two trapeze rings, one slide, a seesaw and a ladder.

Plans are being made to purchase a volleyball set, another sandbox, a playground ball and miscellaneous games. Donations of books and games suitable for children three years of age and older will be appreciated. A play schedule of baseball and bolleyball games for older children is proposed this year.

An added feature of the coming season will be tennis classes for children from seven years of age through high school age. Mrs. Richard Trevaskis will conduct tennis classes Monday and Wednesday mornings from 9:15 to 12:15. Each instruction period will last one hour, and the children will be divided into age groups.

Mrs. Bowie said if sufficient interest in shown, bus service will be provided to the club twice daily for members.

Allegany County School Musicians Acclaimed By Over 1,000 Patrons

A near capacity audience acclaimed Allegany County's first Band Festival last night at Fort Hill High School Auditorium. The 93-piece band of selected musicians from the various high schools in the county performed with the ability of veterans.

Opening the program was the Saturday Workshop Band of elementary school students, under the direction of Madeline Buck, music teacher, Beall High School, Frostburg, and Harry Malcolm, county music instructor.

The senior band program in two parts started at 8:30 o'clock with Malcolm directing the group in Panella's "On The Square." Others following in orders were: "Morning, Noon and Night in Vienna," von Suppe, Philip Kester directing; "Bolero Non," Kurtz, Madeline Buck, directing; selections from Cole Porter, under the baton of Herman Dash. A 15-minute intermission was held at this time.

The second part of the Festival opened with Goldman's rousing "Cheerio," directed by Wilton Sykes followed by Joseph Derry directing the group in Bach's "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring." Victor Herbert selections from "Red Mill," with S. Lua Syckes directing preceded the final number directed by Jack Platt. It was "Lights Out" by E. E. McCoy.

The concert this year is the first to be presented separately from the vocal music department's and was held under the auspicies of the Allegany County Board of Education. The change was necessary because of the large crowds that attend the instrumental programs.

A repeat performance is scheduled for tonight at Bruce High School, Westernport. The Saturday Workshop group will be replaced by the Hammond Street Elementary Orchestra, under the direction of Miles T. Haran, for this performance. The Senior program will be unchanged.

Motive, Clues Are Sought In Luke Explosive Threat

Three Powder Sticks To Be Sent To FBI

Informed that 100 sticks of explosive were stolen from a small mine operation near Luke recently, Maryland State Police last night searched for a motive as well as clues in the attempted destruction of the community's water supply Sunday.

Three sticks of the explosive, two of which were found Friday in the planing mill of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, Luke plant, will be sent to an FBI laboratory, according to Luke Chief of Police Joseph Wilks.

Minimized at first for their explosive power when ignited by flames, the eight-inch-long sticks last night were reported potent enough to blast the entire water supply structure, according to State Police officials.

First Sgt. W. E. O'Hara said he was informed that if paper in which one stick was found at the Luke water tower control room would have continued to burn, it could have blown the entire works up. Police at first said a detonation cap was necessary to touch the explosive off.

Checking Information

Cpl. Harry Holsinger, who is investigating the case with Trooper First Class William Baker, was reported in the Luke section late last night checking information in an effort to make an early arrest in the case, which police admit is baffling.

The explosive stick was discovered Sunday at 8 p. m. in the brick control room of the water tower, wrapped in a piece of partially burned paper, by Town Commissioner Edward Duckworth.

Duckworth, himself an employe at the paper mill, according to police, went to the water tower, which contains enough water to supply the community of 1,000 for a 24-hour period, after the steel door lock was reported broken.

Police last night confirmed the fact that the door lock was forced, but said they have not yet established the method used to break the lock.

The theft of 100 sticks of explosives was reported to area police officials State Police said last night, but the case was not solved.

Could Be Purchased Easily

Chief Wilks said the explosive is used in mining operations and could easily be purchased in a mining community. Luke, although an industrial town, is located near several mining operations.

State Police were called in on the case Sunday night after the explosive stick was found in the control room of the water tower. The two sticks found Friday in the planing mill were turned over to Safety Director John J. Long, of the plant, who notified Luke police.

The tower does not furnish water for the paper mill, according to police, who are puzzled by the fact that an attempt was made on the community water supply.

However, they likewise were unable to advance a motive for the two sticks that were discovered in the mill department Friday.

The water tower was described as a structure about 20 feet high and between 20 and 25 feet across.

Conciliator To Attend Meeting Here Thursday

Members of Local 453, Teamsters Union, AFL, employed at the Koppers Company's Green Spring, W. Va., tie treating plant, have empowered their negotiating committee to call a strike, if necessary, in securing a new contract with the firm, C. E. Stutzman, business agent reported yesterday.

He said the action was taken Sunday when members met at Green Spring and rejected a company contract offer. No date was set, he added, explaining the action merely gives the group permission to call a stoppage whenever it sees fit. The present contract expires Friday.

The union has rejected an offer of a six cents an hour wage increase with three and five cent additional for second and third shift workers and six paid holidays, the union said. Members had asked a 30 cent boost with proportionate increases for shift workers.

The union has represented the some 125 workers at the plant for the past four years without a work stoppage.

Orbello Posts $500 Bond On Gaming Law Charge

Complainant States He Lost $200 In Game

A North Mechanic Street billiard hall proprietor yesterday posted $500 bond in Trial Magistrates Court after being arrested on a warrant charging "Frank Olbento" with maintaining a gaming device.

Deputy Sheriff William Orr said he and Deputy Sheriff William Chappell served the warrant on Frank Orbello, of Frank's lunch and billiard business, at 113 North Mechanic Street.

The warrant was issued in the office of Magistrate Frank A. Perdew on the oath of Louis Baker, Allegany Inn, who was quoted by authorities as saying he lost approximately $200 in a "confusing" card game at the North Mechanic Street business place Sunday afternoon.

Magistrate Perdew said the warrant was issued shortly after noon yesterday and given to the two deputies to be served. Orbello was taken into custody about 1 p. m. and brought to Magistrates Court where a man identified as John Basile posted the bond.

Orbello was released for a heafing this morning at 10 a. m. in Trial Magistrates Court.

The warrant charges that an illegal gaming table was maintained at the 113 North Mechanic Street address Sunday afternoon, and authorities explained that Baker identified the device as a card game.

A county official said that in obtaining the warrant, Baker stated he became drowsey while participating in the game, in which he was quoted as saying, the cards were shuffled across the board very fast during rounds of betting.

There was no explanation for the difference in the spelling of the name on the warrant and the man arrested. Deputy Sheriff Orr said the warrant was served at the 113 North Mechanic Street address.

Political leaders of both major parties are urging all unregistered persons to register today.

Barter Players Return Wednesday To Present Final Play Of Season

Ray Boyle Stars In "John Loves Mary"

The last of the current season's Barter Theatre productions, sponsored by the Junior Association of Commerce, will be presented tomorrow night at 8:15 o'clock in Allegany High School auditorium.

A Norman Krasna comedy, "John Loves Mary," the play is new and modern in every respect. Advance ticket sale indicates the largest audience of the season, even surpassing the record crowd which witnessed "The Hasty Heart" last month, sponsors claim.

Ray Boyle, who made a hit here as the likable Yank in "The Hasty Heart," is cast in "John Loves Mary" in the role of a returning serviceman John.

Selected as last year's outstanding young actor on Broadway, Boyle has had ample opportunity to round out his versatile talents at Barter. Cast in his present role in the season's opening production last summer, he went on to such parts as the romantic Duke Orsino in "Twelfth Night," and Officer Klein in "Arsenic and Old Lace."

Co-founder of the Cherry Lane Theatre in New York while still in his teens, Boyle had just completed an assignment in the Broadway production of "The Great Campaign" when he joined a line of fellow-actors to be auditioned by Helen Hayes for a job with Barter.

Admittedly hazy about the whole idea, the young man arrived on stage, recited lines from a play in which he had appeared two years before, and subsequently learned he had been selected from among 500 contenders as the most promising young actor to appear before Miss Hayes in search of the coveted Barter assignment.

A native of Pittsburgh, he is a graduate of Carnegie Tech.

Country Club Playground To Open June 6; Tennis Classes Planned

The playground at the Cumberland Country Club will open Sunday afternoon, June 6, under the supervision of Miss Phyllis Burley, a sophomore at Frostburg State Teachers' College, according to Mrs. Gordon Bowie, chairman of the playground association committee.

Mrs. Bowie said the playground will be open Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays from 10:30 a. m. until 5 p. m., and on Fridays and Sundays from 1 p. m. until 5:30 p. m. It will be closed on Mondays and Saturdays, with the exception of Monday, July 5, and Monday, September 6.

Children may bring picnic lunches, and the lunch hour will be supervised by Miss Burley.

A dance for the benefit of the playground will be held Saturday, May 22, at the club. Proceeds will be used to purchase additional equipment.

Equipment already on hand from last year includes a large tent, a sandbox, two small swings, one small slide and a badminton set.

The committee has ordered a large stainless steel combination playground set at a cost of $200. The set is eight feet high and has two swings, two trapeze rings, one slide, a seesaw and a ladder.

Plans are being made to purchase a volleyball set, another sandbox, a playground ball and miscellaneous games. Donations of books and games suitable for children three years of age and older will be appreciated. A play schedule of baseball and bolleyball games for older children is proposed this year.

An added feature of the coming season will be tennis classes for children from seven years of age through high school age. Mrs. Richard Trevaskis will conduct tennis classes Monday and Wednesday mornings from 9:15 to 12:15. Each instruction period will last one hour, and the children will be divided into age groups.

Mrs. Bowie said if sufficient interest in shown, bus service will be provided to the club twice daily for members.

Court Disposes Of Most Cases On Criminal Docket

Pair Found Guilty Of Obstructing Rails

Several criminal appeal cases are set for hearings in Circuit Court today, with civil trials to be resumed tomorrow, it was indicated yesterday as a number of criminal indictments were disposed of.

Dorothy Radcliffe, who was indicted on charges of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle and of burglary, was released from the county jail by the Court, when her case was continued until the October term. Court attaches said a prosecuting witness is being sought. She was represented by Morris Baron, attorney.

Another woman, Betty Lee Harris, indicted by the April grand jury on a charge of forgery, involving signing credit slips on another person's account at a local store, was paroled for three years after being given a year's suspended sentence Saturday. The Court referred her case to David Steele, parole officer of the Division of Parole and Probation.

John F. Gurtler, who entered a plea of guilty to a burglary charge was also paroled for three years to Steele, He was arrested after being captured in an burglary attempt at a Baltimore Avenue store.

Ralph Simpson was found guilty on a charge of paternity and ordered to pay $65 medical expense and $8 per month for 15 years. Edward J. Ryan represented the defendant and the case was heard in Court chambers.

Herman F. Bergman, represented by William L. Wilson, Jr., entered a plea of guilty to a similar charge and was ordered to pay $95 medical expenses and $10 per month for 15 years.

A paternity case against Robert Cunningham was removed from the docket and a similar case against Julian A. Rotruck was marked "settled by state."

Hinkle Case Held Over

The Court has made no disposition of the case of Charles Hinkle, this city, who entered a plea of guilty to a charge of false pretenses Saturday. His case, involving four indictments, was to be disposed of yesterday but was held over by the Court.

Edgar William Bryner, 20, a soldier, held on a charge of assaulting Mrs. Helen C. Stark, operator of a drug store on North Centre Street on April 8, is still in the county jail.

Bryner entered a plea of guilty Saturday and the Court took the case under advisement. Yesterday a conference was held with Bryner and a local recruiting officer and the judges, court attaches explained, in an effort, presumably, to get Bryner back in the Army.

Aaron Coleman, the only traverser thus far in the April term to draw a sentence of time to be served, is in the county jail awaiting removal Wednesday to the House of Correction to serve one year. He entered a plea of guilty to robbing George Swadley, Windsor Hotel employe, of $45 last March 7.

Tavern Operators Fined

James Louis Gormer, who operates a beer tavern on North Mechanic Street, was fined $50 and $12.25 costs after he entered a plea of guilty to selling intoxicants on election day.

Samuel A. House, operator of the Mayflower, Front Street, was fined $50 and $16.10 costs on a similar charge. Both men had previously forfeited $50 bond each in Police Court.

Counsel for Gormer said he did not start selling beer on city primary election day until 7 p. m. when a nearby polling place closed. He was under the impression, his attorney told the Court, he could sell beer after that hour.

Both men were arrested by city police. House was not represented by counsel while William L. Wilson, Jr., was attorney for Gormer. It was pointed out that both these men face hearings before the Allegany County Liquor Control Board for violating terms of their licenses.

Brothers Found Guilty

Harry William Skidmore and Lloyd Skidmore, brothers of Westernport were found guilty by the Court of placing an obstruction in a Western Maryland Railway switch and causing a derailment.

The case took up much of the Court's day yesterday. Counsel for the pair argued they were both mentally deficient and their signed confessions should not be admissable as evidence.

Horace P. Whitworth, Sr., said that Harry, 24, and Lloyd, 21, were both comparable mentally with children between six and ten years of age. One of them, Lloyd, could not speak until he was 9 years old, the court was told. After hearing the facts contained in the confessions and events surrounding their signing, Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge George Henderson admitted the confession into evidence.

Both young men took the stand and denied making statements contained in the confessions and Harry Skidmore said he signed the papers because he was "nervous," Lloyd was vague as to why he signed. They said they were arrested by police and told they had caused a train wreck but maintained the train did not wreck until later.

A Western Maryland Railway train passed over the switch and one car and caboose on the rear of the train derailed tieing up traffic for some time. Chief of Police Joseph Wilks of Luke said he saw the boys near the switch and arrested them for questioning after the wreck had occurred. He said obstructions had been placed on the tracks before. Chief Wilks examined the switch light which was off and also threw a piece of iron away from the switch but did not see two other pieces lodged in the switch.

The Court took the case under advisement and sent the two young men to the county jail to await disposition of the case and sentencing.

David Allen Shelton, Hanover, Pa., who was held in the county jail 19 days as a witness in the case against Dorothy Radcliffe, was released on his promise he would return here in October, if the case is called and he is needed to testify.

Auto Rides, Hotel Rooms Lead To Girls' Sentences

Parents Of Pair Warned In Court

Stories of missing money, early morning hotel registrations and automobile rides with "much older" boys were revealed as two 11-year-old local school girls were committed to a state institution for acts of juvenile delinquency.

Authorities said the parents were given suspended jail terms after receiving stern lectures in Juvenile Court on their failure to rear the children properly.

"It's one of the worst cases on record," Arthur G. Ramey, county pupil personnel supervisor, said in explaining how one of the girls was quartered in a local hotel room by her father and left as guardian of two younger children for long periods of time without adult supervision.

Went For Ride

Investigation revealed that on one occasion both of the elementary school girls were taken for an automobile ride by young men in the early morning hours, Ramey said, adding the party crossed over the state line into West Virginia.

Declining to name the children in keeping with policy of the pupil personnel department, Ramey said the girls roamed the streets of the downtown business section at all hours of the night and morning, open to every type of mischievous act.

The one child was placed in a local hotel about 10 months ago, according to Homer Higgins, visiting teacher, who investigated the case, and her father paid the bill and also made provisions for her to eat at a downtown restaurant.

The girl was responsible for two younger children who are students in local elementary schools, but was free to do as she pleased and come and go when she desired. Her school attendance record was bad, Higgins stated.

On at least one occasion, the other 11-year-old girl is known to have obtained a room in a local hotel at 1 a. m. without explanation of why she was alone or the whereabouts of her parents, Ramey declared.

The parents of one girl are separated and the father of the other is a hospital patient, according to Higgins, who said the parents of one are old offenders on juvenile delinquency charges. "They have been in court many times concerning older children who are now grown up," Higgins stated.

Touched Off By Truancy

Repeated truancy from school on the part of both girls along with a recent investigation after one girl was reported missing for over 48 hours touched off the probe by school officials.

Later, Higgins stated, one of the girls was connected with various sums of money that have been disappearing from a fund in a local elementary school.

Ramey, who expressed complete disgust with the conditions under which the two children were being reared, said, "Parental neglect and indifference to the welfare of these two children are the biggest contributing factors to the plight they are now in."

Afer explaining that the girls were taken for automobile rides by youths much older, Ramey and Higgins both said further investigation into the cases is planned to establish identity of other persons contributing to the delinquency of the pair.

The girls were committed to the Montrose School for Girls for an indefinite period and the parents, who were charged with contributing to juvenile delinquency, were given suspended jail terms.

The parents were warned by the Juvenile Court magistrate that should similar circumstances arise with other minor children in the family they will be given long jail sentences, authorities said.

Allegany County School Musicians Acclaimed By Over 1,000 Patrons

A near capacity audience acclaimed Allegany County's first Band Festival last night at Fort Hill High School Auditorium. The 93-piece band of selected musicians from the various high schools in the county performed with the ability of veterans.

Opening the program was the Saturday Workshop Band of elementary school students, under the direction of Madeline Buck, music teacher, Beall High School, Frostburg, and Harry Malcolm, county music instructor.

The senior band program in two parts started at 8:30 o'clock with Malcolm directing the group in Panella's "On The Square." Others following in orders were: "Morning, Noon and Night in Vienna," von Suppe, Philip Kester directing; "Bolero Non," Kurtz, Madeline Buck, directing; selections from Cole Porter, under the baton of Herman Dash. A 15-minute intermission was held at this time.

The second part of the Festival opened with Goldman's rousing "Cheerio," directed by Wilton Sykes, followed by Joseph Derry directing the group in Bach's "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring." Victor Herbert selections from "Red Mill," with S. Lua Syckes directing preceded the final number directed by Jack Platt. It was "Lights Out" by E. E. McCoy.

The concert this year is the first to be presented separately from the vocal music department's and was held under the auspicies of the Allegany County Board of Education. The change was necessary because of the large crowds that attend the instrumental programs.

A repeat performance is scheduled for tonight at Bruce High School, Westernport. The Saturday Workshop group will be replaced by the Hammond Street Elementary Orchestra, under the direction of Miles T. Haran, for this performance. The Senior program will be unchanged.
